

ON THE TIMES

By ART STOTT

It isn't often that people catch me talking to myself. I'm cagey about it. People say unkind things about individuals who carry on long conversations with themselves, and nobody as jealous as I am of the good opinion of others is going to take chances.

Usually I slip away to the rocks at the foot of our lot before I go into my own question-and-answer period. If you happen to be walking around the shore and come across a grey-headed, slightly tubby little guy running over at the mouth, with no one apparently listening, don't let it scare you. I talk to me that way occasionally, and it's all relatively harmless. It's a habit derived from too much reading of the comic strips—these in which Little Orphan Annie and her conscience separate one from the other and chit-chat back and forth. It's part of my double life.

Most of the time I walk around trying to create the impression that I act my age. Only I know I'm a split personality. My emotional development was arrested at about 16. That's what leads me sometimes to knock myself out trying to catch the eye of the hussy-boxers. Recognizing things like that makes guys like me and me fight shy of psychiatrists. We don't like tight jackets with the ends of the sleeves sewn up.

Between Two Worlds

We do get an uneasy feeling, at times, that we're hanging in suspension between two worlds. But that feeling is only mental. Now on Halloween, we near the City of Oak Bay dividing line south of Gonzales Hill learned we're definitely between two worlds and the division is physical. The kids on the city side of Foul Bay Road down our way apparently stayed on their own side. The youngsters on the Oak Bay side collected toward Chinese point. We were in a vacuum.

There's a certain measure of comfort in that position, provided it doesn't become a no-man's land in an inter-municipal battle. But it can sure knock the works out of plans for Halloween visitors.

Next to the desolating experience of being approached for Halloween handouts by a bunch of masked and trusting youngsters and not having any handouts to give is the saddening experience of having the handouts and not having visitors. Out in our vacuum we were in the second category. It's quite a let-down.

You think back over your small plans and preparations. You felt that warm glow of benevolence when you were buying the assorted candies and salted peanuts for your anticipated guests. No, you didn't have any apples. When you asked about it, the boss in your house probably gave you an anguished look and asked you if you knew what apples cost this year before saying kids just collected them and threw them at one another, anyhow.

Santa Claus Feeling

Even without the apples, you enjoyed that Santa Claus feeling as you were parceling out the peanuts and candy in little paper packages. They looked quite attractive, the little bundles screwed together at the top resting in the bowl beside the front door.

Then you waited for the sound of firecrackers and the pounding run of young feet up the front steps. You waited and you waited, and the Santa Claus feeling began to seep away. Smarty-Smarty had a party.

You can't help feeling a little shattered when things like that happen to you. You begin to wonder what the kids in the neighborhood think, what kept them away from your door.

Not that the handouts are wasted; they never are with children of your own in the house. But that doesn't help much either. You watch them and you join them in a determined attack on the peanuts and candy. Bit by bit the pile goes down. Nothing, they say, is denied to well-directed effort. So you lick your way through the stores and finally the bowl is clear. Then you hunch forward, clutch your abdomen and wonder why the misadventures of Halloween should concentrate the district's stomach aches in your household.

A Little Discouraged

You begin to wonder about Halloween and your abdominal discomfort gives you a slightly jaundiced attitude toward the whole business.

Maybe it's one of those things I ought to talk over with me down on the rocks some time. Better I should do that, even if people think me nuts, than try to swallow by pride and my Halloween superfluities together.

Planners Studying Costs Of Family Court For City

Establishment of a Family and Juvenile Court for Greater Victoria came a step closer Friday.

At a meeting in Spencerhouse, reeves, aldermen and councillors of the municipal areas discussed the proposed court plan with the family court committee of the Community Welfare Council.

Distribution of costs was set over until the various municipal councils have been given a complete report and recommendations.

Miss Mildred Wright, director of the Family and Child Service, resigned from the court committee at the meeting. The action followed statements that she had already selected the two trained probation officers who would form part of the personnel in the new plan.

Chairman R. L. Bialuski said the committee had always recommended that selection of personnel be left in the hands of municipal representatives. Miss Wright said she had not selected any officers.

Chairman Bialuski indicated that establishment of the Family Court might take six months.

BIGGER YIELD POSSIBLE

Fraser River Salmon Potential Still High

The Fraser River system has a salmon production potential even greater than in 1913, when 2,400,000 cases were packed. At today's prices that would have been a yield of $96,000,000, says Lloyd A. Royal, director of the International Pacific Salmon Fisheries Commission.

The dark-haired, dead-serious Royal—here to attend the Association of Pacific Fisheries convention—revealed today the six-man U.S.-Canadian commission he heads is on its way towards solving the problem of rehabilitating the runs of sockeye salmon on the Fraser River.

Royal and his aides are now looking ahead, maybe 20, maybe 40, years. "Some day not too far off," Royal mused, "it will become necessary to build huge power dams on the migratory streams. When that happens we hope we'll have the answer to that one too."

The B.C. government and industry recognize the value of the Fraser River system as a salmon-breeding ground. But its value as a source of hydro-electric power is also apparent, Royal said.

"We are willing to meet the power people half way," he added.

The 1951 salmon pack taken from the Fraser was 253,000 cases, and broke a 36-year record, Royal said. Fifty-three per cent of the catch went to Canada, the remainder to the U.S.

HERE, THERE AND EVERYWHERE

By PHILIP LEE
Condensed from CP, AP, and UP Dispatches

HEIL!—In Vienna youths carrying torches marched up to the war memorial during the All Saints' Day homage ceremony here Thursday, threw off their raincoats and revealed Nazi uniforms. They were dispersed by the police.

The incident occurred while a wreath was being placed on the memorial by the League of Independents, a party relying for support mainly on former Nazis. Five members of the National Youth Movement, all wearing Nazi uniforms, have been arrested.

HEROISM—Cool concentration and steady hands in dealing with a hand grenade which was set to go off any moment have won the British Empire Medal for Edward Twigden, 21, of Huntingdon, Eng.

The incident took place last April when Twigden and his buddies were cleaning grenades in the Chinese jungles.

Twigden threw a cleaned grenade to his pal, who slipped a detonator in and tossed it back to be adjusted. Twigden thought the missile was still unprimed and pulled the pin.

The fuse fizzed ominously. Twigden thought fast. He could have lobbed the grenade into a nearby clearing to save himself. But the blast might have wounded one of a group of natives gathered around.

With three seconds left, he unscrewed the base cap, lifted the detonator out and flung it to one side where it burst harmlessly.

"Thank God he didn't fumble," was the comment of an officer who witnessed the jungle incident.

EMBARRASSING—In William, Minn., Clarence Krause was so proud of the 13½-pound "snow goose" he shot on a hunting trip that he had his picture taken with it.

Thursday Krause paid a $10 fine after a game warden recognized the bird in the picture as a swan. There is no open season on swans.

REALITY—In Rome, Ermanno Randi, Italian movie star, Thursday died of the death he had enacted before a movie camera only six hours before. He was shot five times after a fight in the apartment he shared with Singer Giuseppe Maggiori. Randi, 30, had just finished filming a scene from "My Trieste," in which he plays the part of Sicilian bandit, Salvatore Guilianno. Police charged Maggiori with murder.

ENCORE—In London, Mary Martin, star of the musical "South Pacific," opening here gave Londoners an unexpected street performance at 7 a.m. Thursday.

She came out of the Theatre Royal in Drury Lane to sing to rain-soaked crowds who began lining up for tickets almost 24 hours before the opening.

She sang "A Wonderful Guy," one of the hits of the show. The Londoners cheered and shouted until she sang again. This time she gave them "I'm Gonna Wash That Man Right Outa My Hair."

DEMURE—In Sydney, Australia, Hollywood actress Jean Parker was ordered off fashionable Bondi Beach for wearing a bikini bathing suit described by police as "below all decency."

Police Inspector Bill Willis told the shapely, brown-haired star: "You are making an exhibition of yourself. Please go."

While dozens of sunbathers clustered around to witness the police action—and the revealing suit—the Montana-born Miss Parker said demurely:

"I'm sorry, I thought in such a sunny, healthy country, these suits would be just the thing."

Her husband, Robert Lowery, made no attempt to interfere. His only advice was: "Aw, go out and buy another suit, honey."

LOSS—In Winnipeg Dr. Herbert L. Trower of Toronto, associate director of the Canadian Child Health Association, said Thursday Canada is losing native born children at a death rate of 16,000 a year.

Addressing a luncheon meeting of the Lions Club here he said this death toll means that Canada loses 44 babies out of every 1,000 born alive.

Dr. Trower said that most child deaths occur in the first few months of life. Since 1900, more than 1,000,000 babies have died before reaching their first birthday.

SEARCH—In Liverpool, England, five Canadians in search of peace arrived today in the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of France.

They were Maj. Gen. G. R. Pearkes, F. H. Larson, Colin Bennett, Senator J. R. Hurlbise, and M. Bourget—all members of Canada's delegation to the U.N. Assembly opening Tuesday in Paris.

Their chairman, L. B. Pearson, external affairs minister, was due in Paris by plane today.

RESTLESS—In Denver George N. Crowder called his doctor to find out what he should do about his youngsters.

In recent weeks, four-year-old George Jr.:

Painted his head slate grey.

Rammed his hand through a window while waving at his grandparents.

Stuck a toy horn through the roof of his mouth.

Ate moth balls.

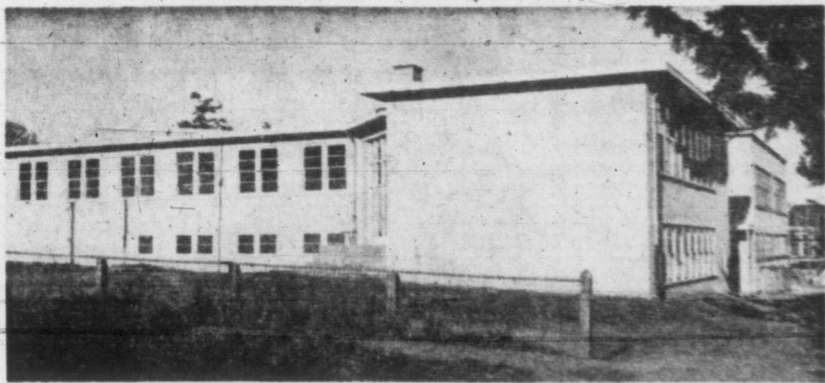

Brother Gary, 2, hasn't that vast experience but did swallow a nail the other day.

"Forget the kids," the doctor told Crowder. "Get some rest. You need it worse than they do."

CRIMELESS—In Dauphin, Man., presiding magistrate Thomas Little, Thursday, dismissed R.C.M.P. charges that a Dauphin newsdealer had violated the federal government's 1949 "Crime Comic" Act.

The dealer, Paul Jaddock, appeared in Dauphin court Thursday. It was the first comic book prosecution under the recent "crime comic" amendment to the Canadian criminal code.

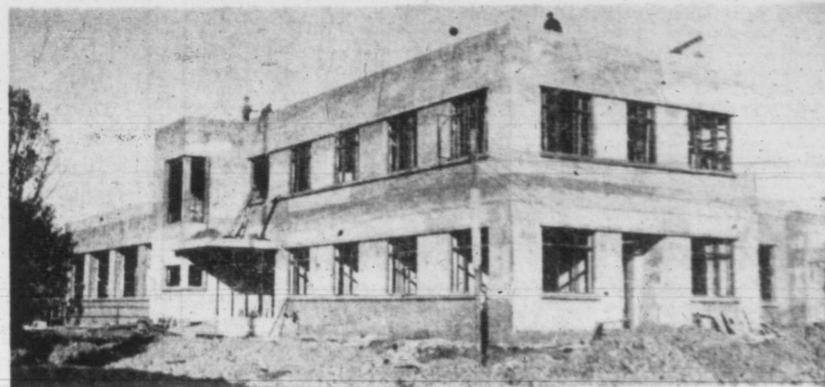

FAMILIAR—In Baltimore, Mrs. Anna M. Zeberlein used to say: "If my bar's good enough to make a living for me, it's good enough to be laid out in." Her family remembered the statement. Today the casket bearing the body of the 66-year-old woman was placed in the tavern she operated for 20 years. She will be buried later today.

New Schools Nearing Completion

School construction continues at steady pace in Victoria. Contractors hope to have all sections of Esquimalt High addition ready for occupancy early in new year. Architects for $370,924 addition, shown above, are James, Polson and Siddall.

To be ready by December's end, shipment of steel windows from England will delay completion of new Normal School administrative-classroom building until Easter. Birley, Wade and Stockdill are architects for $259,000 structure.

Elizabeth, Philip Start Second Holiday Of Tour

MONTREAL Nov. 2 (BUP).—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh returned from their 45-hour visit to the United States today and promptly headed for a Laurentian mountain hideaway for the second holiday of their trans-Canada tour.

The Royal couple will spend the week-end jolling in a Laurentian retreat near Ste. Agathe, Que., a short distance from Montreal, Monday, they will pick up the thread of their 10,000-mile tour of the senior Dominion, stopping briefly at a half dozen Quebec communities before entering the Maritimes for a week.

The two days in the Laurentians will be the second respite for Elizabeth and Philip from their time-tabled tour. They spent three days last week at Eaglecrest Lodge, near Qualicum, B.C.

WELCOMED BY CHILDREN—Twelve hundred crippled children assembled at Dorval airport to greet the Princess and the Duke of Edinburgh when they arrived aboard their R.C.A.F. plane. Three of the children, Georgina Pine, Eleanor Minsky and Gilberte Leblanc, had been selected to present bouquets.

Eduard Rinfret, postmaster-general and cabinet minister in attendance during the Quebec section of the tour, was on hand to greet the Royal couple. About 30 wives of members of the federal parliament were presented to the Princess at the airport.

After the visit with the crippled children, Elizabeth and Philip drove to the private estate near Ste. Agathe to start their holiday. Their next public appearance will be Sunday, when they attend services at the Anglican church of Ste. Agathe, with the Rev. Dr. Basil Jones conducting the services.

Mayor Jacques Duquette said he expected "thousands of people from this and nearby towns and villages and a large number of American tourists" would gather to welcome the Royal couple after they attend Holy Communion services at the Laurentian mountains' oldest Anglican church.

The Princess and her sailor-husband originally planned no major appearances during their holiday, but local officials were busy putting the final touches to plans for a big-town welcome in the hills.

The two-mile route from the entrance to Ste. Agathe to the church will be decorated with banners and flags, including the Union Jack, the Canadian Red Ensign and the blue and white fleur-de-lis, traditional flag used by Quebec's predominantly Roman Catholic residents.

Monday morning they board their special 10-car red and green train—with 10-minute stops scheduled at St. Hyacinthe, Drummondville, Levis, Rivere du Loup, Rimouski and Mont Joli, Que. Tuesday finds them in the Maritimes, with a five-hour tour of Fredericton, N.B., and an evening at Saint John, N.B., in the Royal engagement book.

If You're Harris' Descendant You Stand Chance To Inherit $13,000

Anyone in Victoria answering to the name of Harris or has relatives by that name stands a chance today of being richer by $13,000.

But to receive the money they must first look up their family tree to see if they are the relatives of the late James Harris and his wife, Elizabeth (nee Boyd), who died recently without issue in Chicago.

A hunt to trace the missing relatives indicates they live in Victoria, according to a letter written by Walter C. Cox, probate genealogist, 208 S. LaSalle Street, Chicago.

The genealogist, who has been conducting the hunt with only scant clues, states that unfortunately he does not know the first names of the deceased couple's brothers or sisters or those of their nieces and nephews.

The Victoria city directory lists 115 persons with the name Harris.

Mr. Drew's Lieutenants

MR. J. M. MACDONNELL AND MR. John Diefenbaker, Conservatives, are two of the most useful members of the Canadian Parliament. We were glad when they were re-elected in 1949. We hope they will long remain in the House of Commons. And we are happy to see that they have refused to accept the confused thinking of their leader, Mr. Drew, on the problem of inflation.

Last spring Mr. Drew proposed a partial and "flexible" system of price controls. He did not ask the government to control all prices. He did not ask it to control wages, which would be essential if prices were to be controlled in any industry. He just wanted something easy, painless and, of course, politically popular.

A few days ago Mr. Drew retreated some distance from his position of last spring. He then proposed "emergency" controls . . . to the extent that they are required to deal effectively with the cost of living and inflation. There was no limit to that plan. Once the government had controlled one set of prices it would have been sucked inevitably into total controls, both on prices and wages, since wages are the main content of prices.

But the other day, trying desperately to extricate himself from his original open-ended program, Mr. Drew asked the government only to "adopt such selective controls as are necessary to hold down the prices of the particular materials or supplies which the government is setting aside for defence purposes."

There is a world of difference between Mr. Drew's spring and autumn policies. The former is unlimited. The latter is limited strictly to defence materials. And it is not defence materials that chiefly concern the housewife. She is concerned mainly with foodstuffs, clothing, furniture, rent, fuel and so on. Moreover, it is only food prices that have advanced significantly since early summer and Mr. Drew's autumn version does not touch food. It does not touch, in fact, the real cost of living.

Why Mr. Drew executed this sudden retreat is pretty clear from the speeches of Mr. Macdonnell and Mr. Diefenbaker. These two gentlemen are Mr. Drew's chief lieutenants. Mr. Macdonnell is the accepted financial critic of the Opposition and is equipped for that role by a lifetime of success in private finance. Mr. Diefenbaker is the ablest lawyer of the Opposition and a natural minister of justice in any Conservative government. Neither of these gentlemen was willing to advise the government to attempt any direct price controls at all.

One searches Mr. Macdonnell's speech in vain for any advocacy of direct price controls. Indeed, Mr. Macdonnell seems to approve of the government's use of indirect fiscal weapons of deflation but complains, rather lamely, that they were not started soon enough. (Mr. Drew, on the other hand, thinks them far too severe, but that is another story which will be discussed later.)

Mr. Diefenbaker's break with Mr. Drew on price controls was even clearer. Naturally he did not condemn Mr. Drew's views outright but the indirect condemnation leaps from page 118 of Hansard, the parliamentary record.

There Mr. Diefenbaker recalls that on April 1, 1946 "an appropriate date," All Fools' Day, as Mr. Diefenbaker remarks, the Saskatchewan legislature, under C.C.F. direction, passed a law controlling all prices and wages. The law was passed but never brought into effect. "I presume," says Mr. Diefenbaker, "the legislation was not brought into force was that there would then have been only three classes in the community, those in jail waiting to get out, those in jail, and the rest of the people waiting to get in."

There could hardly be a more devastating comment on Mr. Drew's easy, "flexible" and painless price control policy. Mr. Drew's chief financial adviser seems hesitant to mention it. Mr. Diefenbaker, citing a Saskatchewan example, says that controls, except under wartime conditions, cannot possibly work.

When he cannot carry his chief lieutenants forward with him it is no wonder Mr. Drew begins a strategic retreat from a partial control policy which would fall between two stools.

A Popular Appointment

NEWS OF REAR-ADMIRAL EDMOND Rollo Mainguy's appointment to the top position in the Royal Canadian Navy will be received with gratification and pride by Vancouver Islanders. To those who have followed the career of this genial and talented officer, a native son of Chemainus, the post of chief of naval staff is a logical climax to a distinguished career.

As a senior officer of destroyers in the early days of the Battle of the Atlantic, Admiral Mainguy was decorated with an Order of the British Empire. When he came ashore as Captain of Destroyers in Newfoundland he won fame as the founder of two lasting institutions—the Seagoing Officers' Club ("Crow's Nest") and Donovan's rest camp, for war-weary sailors.

In 1944 he was honored with command of H.M.C.S. Uganda, the only Canadian warship to see action against the Japanese. Here he was confronted with a second battle, against Ottawa politicians who decreed that everyone in the Pacific theatre should re-volunteer for the "new" war. Admiral Mainguy fought a gallant but losing battle and went down with his colors flying to the vast sympathy of his fellow commanders in the British Pacific Fleet.

Above all, Admiral Mainguy has demonstrated a superb gift for getting along with people. When he took up his recent command in Halifax, the memory of the VE-Day riots was fresh in citizens' minds and the navy was, at least temporarily, persona non grata with the populace. The new C-in-C told Halifaxians that this was their navy. He threw open the dockyard for public visits. He made it possible for wives and children to greet incoming ships. Quickly the breach was healed.

Admiral Mainguy assumes command at a time when Canadian ships are performing with notable zeal and efficiency in Korean waters. If, as Ottawa has indicated, our navy is to continue its classic role as a convoy escort and submarine hunter, it will be heartening to those in the service to know that a "destroyer man" is at the helm.

The Piper Must Be Paid

BRITISH COLUMBIA FOR SOME time past has been priding itself, and justly so, on being out in the forefront of progress. We regard with pleasure the high standards of our school system, and the fact that our old age pension has been larger in the province than in any other. We compare our various social welfare provisions very favorably with those of other parts of Canada. We've been telling ourselves these things for some time, and telling others too.

Well, the news is getting around. Eastern papers and financial interests are paying attention to British Columbia's leadership in these matters. They are also paying attention to the cost.

Thus we have The Toronto Globe and Mail making a comparison of per capita costs of government in the various provinces. The paper notes that Ontario is taxing and spending at the rate of $250 millions a year, which works out at a cost of $56 for each man, woman and child of the population of four and a half million. On the same basis, Quebec residents must pay $58 for their provincial government's activities, Nova Scotia $57, Manitoba $55. Saskatchewan comes a little higher, at $60.

And what is British Columbia's rate? The terrific sum of $114, says The Globe and Mail. Even reducing this to $107, on the basis of a population of 1.1 millions and a budget of $118 millions, still leaves us paying roughly double the per capita taxes of the other provinces.

That is the price of leadership in social services and the other luxuries which we enjoy. It is not necessarily an argument against providing those luxuries. But it is a very potent argument in favor of keeping the public conscious of the price tag on our purchases. If we are to pay twice as much as anyone else, we should make sure we get twice as much for our money.

The Clause In Fine Print

DICTATORSHIP, ONCE EMBARKED upon, recognizes no limits in its attempts to exercise complete control over the individual. The basic circumstances of his economic life quickly fall under regulation—the labor permit, the food card, the transportation permit, and so on. In the second stage of totalitarianism the more intimate events of his personal life also become subject to state direction.

That is the stage apparently now reached in East Germany. As Hitler in his time barred the intermarriage of racers, so the Communists today impose political restrictions. A woman of the Communist party, according to a news dispatch from Berlin, cannot marry a man who is in disfavor with the political bosses. She must submit his name for approval, or take the risk of losing her party card or of being put back on probation.

That is the "freedom of the proletariat" to which Communists and fellow travelers can look forward. It's a development which doesn't get much publicity in their propaganda literature.

November Violets

THE TANG OF SHARP CIDER clings to the early November air, spilling over from the bright days of late October, and the garden, where chrysanthemums bloom among bronzing shrubs, seems to put on its shaggy jacket of Harris tweed. Across the Strait, the Olympics have marched nearer, brought forward through a trick of the eye, and more sharply etched by the cold.

In the sheltered border, seemingly confused by a sun still warm in afternoon strength, a few violets bloom. These lack the lush profusion of the covering which spread rosetted blue satin on the cushion of spring foliage. Rather are they shy blooms, that peek from behind leaves already whitened at the edges. Yet there is a clinging memory to them of a past season's softness, and a promise in them of more spring days to come.

They are strangers to the garden now, the more precious because their days are numbered. And from them comes some tiny fragrance adding flavor to November's winy bouquet.

LOOSE ENDS

Cowboy In Town

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

IT IS ALWAYS a strange and often a shattering experience to meet the author of a great book. I mean that the book and the author are generally so different. But only on the outside, of course. The inner man and his book are the same thing.

The author, however, usually wears a mask in public simply because, being sensitive (he could not be an author otherwise) he cannot bear to reveal himself in the flesh to the public. His book must speak for him in truth while he maintains a public fiction for mere self-protection against the inquisitive mob.

A SMALL mob of us laid siege the other day to a genuine, sensitive and rather bewildered young author named Richmond P. Hobson, Jr., who, I think, has revealed our own British Columbia better than any other man.

Perhaps you have not heard of Richmond Hobson. That is not surprising for it is unlikely that you have heard of British Columbia either. You have not heard of it, or at least you have never seen it unless you have penetrated far beyond the end of any road into the empty space, the loneliness and the chilling grandeur which still fills most of this little-known land.

Some British Columbians have made this final exploration and glimpsed the real substance behind the facade of cities and the wink of street lights. Curiously enough, it is an American who returns to tell us of the great discovery.

NOT CURIOUS either, for Canadians can seldom articulate their country even if they know it. A foreigner comes here, sees the thing for the first time with a wild surmise on his private peak in Darien and, after a moment of silence, sees no reason to keep his secret.

Rich Hobson and his incredible companion Panhandle Phillips (surely a direct descendant of Ulysses) were destitute cowboys on a Wyoming ranch during the great depression. Hobson was educated, the son of privilege and luxury but determined to make his own way in life. Panhandle was just a cowboy, but what a cowboy!

Anyhow, these two unlikely explorers heard somehow of the unexplored land of grass beyond the rim of human settlement, north of our Chilcoot country. In a broken jalopy they set out to find it. How they found it—a land where no white man had ever been, where the government maps showed only a white blank—is Hobson's story, which he calls "Grass Beyond the Mountains."

ONE WOULD not care to spoil the reader's pleasure by retelling that story of packhorse, glacier, wild animals and agony. Suffice it to say that Hobson has written the first authentic Odyssey of British Columbia—written it laboriously by candle light in his cabin with a pencil to the sound of bawling cattle, frightened horses and howling wolves, written it roughly in the blunt, unornamented style of a born writer who has his own story to tell. The story of two men who discovered British Columbia, almost lost their lives a hundred times by starvation, frost and drowning and now reveal to us what we should have known already but do not.

ONE READS such a book and forms a picture of the author and the inner picture is true, since the author in his testament cannot disguise himself. The outer man, well disguised, is something very different. Shakespeare himself, I suppose, "if one could meet him on the street today, would seem the most unlikely person to write 'Hamlet.' No doubt he would brush all questions aside, unwilling to discuss his private thoughts, and would talk about the weather or the high cost of living.

So Hobson, like all writers, brushes off his Odyssey and talks of the ranch which he has wrung from the empty wilderness, of the price of beef (which the rancher cannot afford to eat but must buy tinned meat from England, of all places), and of ordinary gossip. The thing which Hobson has found, like the discovery of all authors, is too important, too big and too personal to discuss except in print where the mob cannot reach him.

THIS WHEN a huge, roughest man with weatherbeaten face, strong hands and a careless laugh drives to town in a muddy jeep and finds himself transported from the saddle of a cayuse into the luxury of the Empress Hotel in Victoria, he does not look like an author, or even much like a cowboy.

He is a fish out of water. He is a cowboy out of the saddle. He is an author trying his best to look like something else. To read him we must read his book where he and countless strange, unknown Canadians, together with countless horses, each with characters as distinct as human beings, come suddenly to life.

Thus the old miracle of an ordinary-looking man who makes the ultimate discovery and finds tongue to utter it, of a people who always need such men to reveal them to themselves.

HAPPILY in Mr. Hobson's case this is no mere flirtation with our country, no passing glance before he moves on. He has become a Canadian citizen. He is anchored for life in his grass beyond the mountains, with a Canadian wife, a Canadian outlook and a fierce pride in his country. The Odyssey, for him, is ended. But there is at least another book ahead to recount his adventures after the grass was found.

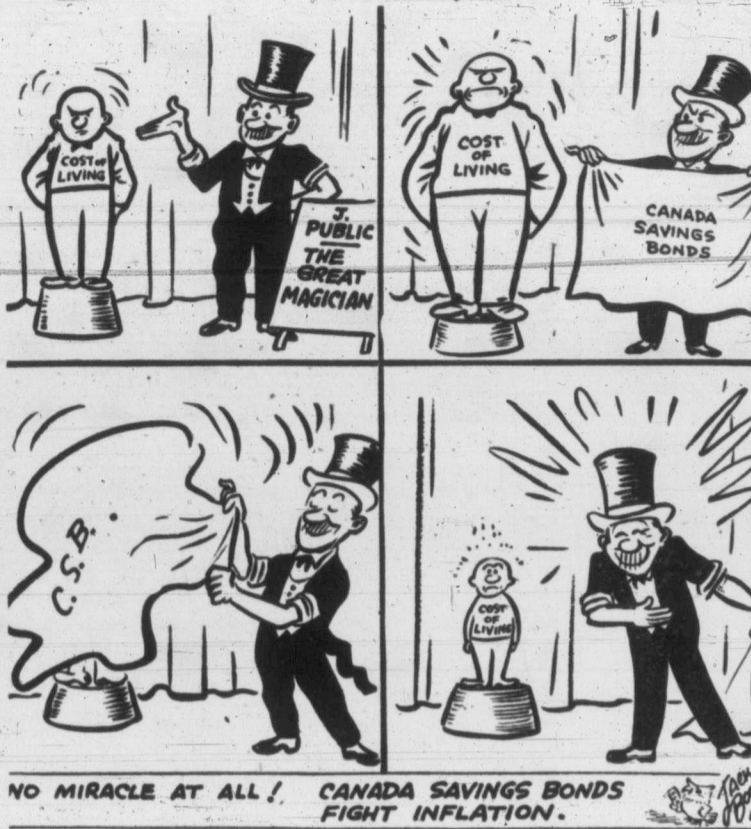

Disappointing Indians

Ottawa Journal

Saskatchewan had some trouble finding real Indian beaded moccasins for presentation to Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh. In consequence there is an air of surprise in the reports of correspondents, who may have expected Indians in buckskins, feathers and moccasins instead of jeans, cowboy hats, and rubber ankle-boots.

Primitive people, in the Arctic or Africa, always cause disappointment because they so quickly appreciate the blessings of civilization and adopt chewing gum, tobacco and corsets without a moment's hesitation. No wonder the Indians become impatient with strangers who expect them to be clad for the warpath with scalp at their belts.

You Can Do It, Too

Under Our Roof

By HAMISH

THIS is Hamish again. I am continuing to write this column on account of the man who usually does it is still away. Where the man is, nobody seems to know, and we really don't mind—that is Col. S. Skiffington-Smutts (Ret.) and Anastasia Wiggs-Wiggs and Little Augie—because we are having a wonderful time in the man's house here in the country, and he wasn't complaining about having to live in the shed.

I guess it's just as well that the man is staying away on account of he wouldn't be able to live in the shed anymore, unless he cared to move in with the goat. Of course, there is always my pup tent, but I'm afraid that would be rather crowded on account of the man has a wife and a small child.

Little Augie brought the goat home yesterday. Little Augie is doing pretty well peddling home-made beer, and although it is not exactly Class trade, as Little Augie explains it, the fact remains that it is a step in the right direction. The Colonel and Anastasia and I were sitting in the living-room when Little Augie arrived, and Anastasia, who is a little short-sighted, immediately reached for her elephant gun, shouting: "Tiger!" The Colonel intervened before she could fire.

"This here animal is called a goat," Little Augie explained, proud of his knowledge. "I got him in payment for a six months' supply of my double-strength extra special pale ale." The goat walked over to the corner of the room and began devouring a table lamp.

I suggested that the man who owns his house would not like his living-room furniture being eaten, but Little Augie explained that we had to keep the goat well fed if we wanted it to do its stuff. "You see," said Little Augie, "this is a most amazing animal. It is a sort of junior cow."

"A junior cow is a calf," the Colonel pointed out, watching the goat finish off the lamp and start on one of the upholstered chairs.

"I mean," said Little Augie, "that it works like a cow. You press something and milk comes out."

"Since when did you become interested in milk?" I asked him. "I am not interested in milk for milk's sake," explained the blind-pig king. "It just struck me that if I mixed some of this goat's milk with rubbing alcohol—say two parts to one—I might have something really good for the Class trade. I could bottle it very cheaply and make a nice profit."

Well, I must admit that Little Augie is quite an inventive fellow and is never really at a loss. (At this point the goat had consumed the chair's upholstery and was looking around for something for dessert.)

That sounds pretty good, Little Augie, I said, "except that it occurs to me that you might kill a few people selling them what you propose."

Little Augie shrugged. "Maybe I'd lose a few customers at the start, before I got the proportions right. But that is one of the hazards of the trade. On second thought, it might be better to mix the goat's milk with my special pale ale."

At that moment there was a scream from Anastasia Wiggs-Wiggs. The goat had given one of her legs a nip and evidently liked the taste. The animal probably mistook it for the base of the dining-room table, which was not his fault considering the size of Anastasia's legs.

We rescued her just in time, and that is why the goat is now living in the shed. So I don't see much point in the man who writes this column coming home at all.

Unless, as I said before, he wants to use my pup tent. Little Augie is very busy producing his first batch of goat's ale.

Progress Has Its Price

By F. TALBOT SMITH

IN THE course of the changes which have taken place in Victoria in recent years it was inevitable that some charming old landmarks and features of an earlier, more leisurely era should disappear, to be replaced by structures of a modern character.

This has often been done without injury to the essential beauty of the city, and one can appreciate and approve of the new look with only a mild sense of nostalgia over the passing of the old. But there are some changes which cannot be viewed in that light.

An outstanding example is at the foot of Blanshard Street where, until recently, there was a bare rocky eminence which provided a magnificent view over the southern part of the city, the Strait of Juan de Fuca, and the miraculous Olympic Mountains.

How often have I, and many others, paused there to enjoy that incredible spectacle! There was no other place like it in the whole city, a natural lookout, with a different viewpoint from that of Beacon Hill, and more convenient for citizens and tourists alike. With little expense it could have been soiled, seeded to grass and flowers, and made into a miniature beauty spot, as well as a public vantage point for enjoying one of the most breath-taking panoramas in the world.

I do not know what considerations were responsible for the erection of the great building of the B.C. Power Commission where it effectively blocks off this marvellous scene forever. On a fine Sunday evening recently I walked down Blanshard Street and gazed up at this imposing edifice which obliterates what might truthfully be called a glimpse into Paradise.

Just to the left of the building only a narrow strip of sky and of the Olympics, tinged with the rose of sunset, was visible. That was all that was left of what had been. Blank walls and windows stared down unseeing at the lovely sight, closed forever to all but a few fortunate employees in the building.

A community's material progress may sometimes be at the expense of more important things, and Victoria citizens should be on the alert to see that other losses, impending or in the offing, similar to that on Blanshard Street, do not occur.

ROYAL VISIT

The exhaustion experienced by H.R.H. Princess Elizabeth during her most fatiguing progress through Canada should be noted by those wishing to serve and honor her.

The handshaking should be reduced to a minimum. At all public receptions it should be made very clear that the Princess will shake hands with the first 100 persons presented to her. The remainder to curtsy, or to bow.

It would save Her Royal Highness a great deal of avoidable fatigue if this could be put into practice during the second half of her most arduous tour; some of which will be through the United States.

FIXED PRICES

If the Victoria dept. store managers are correctly reported in Saturday's paper, the statement by one manager regarding the 10 per cent increase on freight by boat from Vancouver is that, in view of such increase "price cutting below fixed prices would be suicide."

In the first place such merchandise that comes under manufacturers' price fixing mostly arrives in carloads which is not affected in the freight increase and, secondly, with the terrific "mark-up" most of these fixed price articles get, such a freight increase on the individual article would be negligible.

Is it to be implied that in spite of the Ottawa ruling prices "fixed" goods are to be held without free competition to find the proper level?

Ottawa is to be commended for at last going after the most unfair and undemocratic practices the manufacturers generally in Canada, have carried on for so long, also, the castigation of the three-brand manufacturers was long overdue, as it is estimated the people of the west paid $9,000,000 extra for bread in the time the cases were in court, and there is no reduction now!

QUEST OF TRUTH

Our Mr. Pepper writes many a pungent letter to the newspapers and he expresses very forcibly and effectively a minority point of view. His stark reality is not popular, but the plain truth seldom is. Yet freedom of the press demands that just such free thought should be discussed openly and fairly debated without mutual acrimony.

Christians should recognize that there are rationalist and humanist societies all over the world, in America, India, Australia, New Zealand, Holland, Germany, while in England itself the free thought movement has flourished and grown for a hundred years.

I mean in its present form, because there have always been keen and able skeptics in every age and in every land. Quite frankly I hope that there always will be and that these brave pioneers will continue to attempt to lift the burden of ignorance and superstition which, in spite of our undoubted progress, still rests so heavily on the human mind.

Rationalists and humanists, whatever prejudice may aver to the contrary, are not interested in political systems, their political views vary just as much as in any other section of our society. Nor what we seek is the greatest of all quests, the search for the inescapable truth as far as it may be known by human reason.

Using human reason and experience as our guides we find ourselves quite unable to accept the emotionalism of faith which all too readily assumes that there is any easy answer to extremely difficult questions, without bothering one's head as to what that answer really is. To us the ultimate meaning of things is unknown, probably unknowable, by our limited human minds.

No human being can escape death, but this stark reality does not prevent us from trying to make the best use of our brief existence. In the same way humanists believe that a life lived rightly here and now—without bribe of heaven or fear of hell—is the best and indeed the only way to secure the happiness of those we love—and our own. "HUMANIST."

Ups And Downs

By BRIAN TORIN

"FOLKS," said the Elevator Man, "who don't think they're going to be believed are always careful to have an alibi. When the cop pounces and demands 'Where were you on the night of 1932?' it's handy to be able to back up your claim that you were right at home listening to the radio with proof that you really were. That's what those kids had in mind the other night. A magistrate in a New Jersey town noticed three youngsters sitting at the back of his court. They stayed there through case after case, and he finally enquired what they were doing there. The boys pointed out that it was Halloween. They argued that if the police were going to round up pranksters they'd have a foolproof alibi. The lion always knows where you are if you keep your head in his mouth. Lower main!"

"Sometimes," said the Elevator Man, "people use the alibi principle in a slightly different way. Instead of a proof of honesty it becomes an aid to dishonesty. Take that fella on the construction job, for instance. The security officer on a big government site saw a workman wheeling a bundle of straw out the gates. He examined the load carefully, but it was just what it appeared to be, so he let it pass. The next day the same thing happened, and the next and the next. By the end of the week the security officer was pretty curious what the fella did with all the straw. Finally he met him after hours in a tavern. 'We're both off duty now,' he said. 'So tell me frankly, what's your racket?' 'Wheelbarrows,' said the fella. Going down!"

"It's one thing," said the Elevator Man, "to be able to prove that what you say is true. But it's even better not to have to prove it. The proof may take only a minute or two. But the reputation that means your word will be accepted without question is a lifetime job. A few petty deceptions can upset years of 'truthfulness.' For, considering the beating it has to take, a reputation is a mighty fragile vessel."

City Fires Direct Result Of Tots Lighting Matches

Children playing with matches caused two fires in Victoria, Thursday, damage in one case reaching $4,500.

Fire Chief Frank Briers today reported he had "uncovered" evidence showing that youngsters at play set a fire which burned the back of an old rooming house at 317 Quadra Street in the late afternoon.

In the second fire, three-year-old Russell Olson found a box of matches at his 626 Dunedin home and started striking them. A mattress of his crib was soon smoldering. Burnside hall firemen acted quickly to prevent serious damage.

The rooming house fire started in a shed at the rear and spread to the back part of the three-story frame structure. Firemen stopped the blaze before it got to the front half of the building and wetted down a second rooming house next door to prevent the fire from spreading.

Tenants lost most of their belongings through smoke and fire damage. They included Thomas Zoultik, Jack McFadden, Laura Thompson, Russell Giles and Stanley Bowley.

Possessions of Mr. and Mrs. William Hurst, in charge of the house, were also badly damaged.

Frank Knight, employee of Gladwell Motors, rescued a budgie bird owned by Miss Thompson from a ground floor room.

The building was partially covered by insurance.

He said the union—Amalgamated Street and Electric Railway Workers of America (A.F.L.)—now is discussing the city's latest offer.

The city's 500 transit employees made the strike vote Wednesday. Labor Minister Dr. J. L. Robinson announced Thursday they voted overwhelmingly to strike.

WITHOUT MACHINES SMALL DAIRIES DIE

Day Of Hard-Working Farmer Is Past;
Industry Must Be Modernized To Survive

By DON INGHAM

The day of the small hand dairy farmer is past. This is the picture, as presented by district dairymen: The man without the money to buy adequate land, barns and modern machinery can't operate economically. Hired hands cost too much. Bought feed costs too much. The little man is "costed" right out of business, they say.

Greater use of machinery is the answer to one of the dairyman's chief problems—labor. In the opinion of F. A. Rudd, Burnside Road.

NO 40-HOUR WEEK

"We all know the labor situation is bad," he said, "and the 40-hour week will not work on the farm."

"However, the best brains in the country are designing and building labor-saving machines for us. If we do not use them, then we are out of step with the rest of industry."

With the proper machinery, he said, it is possible for one man to do the necessary daily work around a dairy farm.

"Every other industry is constantly developing machines to do the work of men," he said. "It's time we did also."

Rudd said, in his opinion, a further increase in the price of milk would be folly because the public cannot afford to pay more.

He said dairy farming is no

"gold mine," but that a man who works at the business will make a living. He also said farmers cannot expect help every time they encounter adverse conditions, such as the drought of the past summer.

Rudd is recognized here and elsewhere as one of the most progressive dairy farmers in Canada. Due to his fertilizing methods and use of land he maintains 60 cows on 32 acres, which is considered a high ratio for this area.

When that operation is completed the cow is guided by gates to whatever part of the yard the farmer wishes. And all through the operation are power conveyors, scoops and tractors that can be operated by one man to save precious hours.

It takes capital to start such a business, but it will be a success.

PENSION CALL STILL LIGHT

Total of 2,800 persons have applied for the new 65-69 age group pensions in British Columbia.

Welfare officials said there is a potential 17,400 in this group. The 2,800 figure represents applications made in the first month.

Meanwhile, federal authorities report 34,700 B.C. persons have applied for the universal old age pension of $40 to be paid to all persons over 70 without a means test. The potential in this group is 48,000.

Canada, U.S. Work To Maintain Salmon Industry

A plea that Canada and U.S. fish trade associations establish closer working relationships "to solve mutual problems" was made Thursday at the closing session here of the three-day 38th annual association of Pacific Fisheries.

"We should get together more often," said Francis Millard, Vancouver, president of Fisheries Council of Canada. "After all, we share the world's most productive fishing grounds and should tackle our problems together rather than separately."

Royal Toner, New York, president of National Fisheries Institute, of Washington, D.C., spoke in the same vein. He said "U.S. and Canadian producers have essentially the same market, the same product and the same people to deal with."

Earlier, the association members—representing salmon canning interests in B.C., Alaska and the U.S. northwest, as well as representatives from allied industries—heard reports on the harvest of pink salmon from the Alaskan Peninsula, southeastern Alaska and the Fraser River.

Seton H. Thompson, chief of the Branch of Alaska Fisheries, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, Washington, D.C., declared that while the salmon catch in Alaska last year was again disappointing "these runs can be restored and when restored can be maintained."

Thompson added: "We can now say that the pink salmon in southeastern Alaska runs are well on their way to recovery."

Confirmation of Thompson's statement came from Clarence Rhode, of Juneau, regional director, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service.

"The toughest part of restoring the productivity of these runs is behind us," Rhode declared. "The big problem now is how to deal with the tremendous increase in gear in these waters."

Maurice Rattray, of Fisheries

Defense Administration, Washington, D.C., warned the association that increasing defense demands for steel, copper and aluminum will mean less and less for fisheries.

Work of the International Salmon Fisheries Commission, New Westminster, in helping restore productivity of salmon on the Fraser River and its tributary streams was sketched by Loyd Royal, commission director.

V. F. Sutter, Seattle, was re-named president of the association. Also re-elected was Dr. E. D. Clark, Seattle, secretary-treasurer.

The convention closed Thursday night with a dance and buffet supper at the Empress Hotel, scene of convention sessions.

HOME GARDEN

by Hilda Beasall

Many of the common ailments of house plants may be avoided if the time and facilities are available for a simple program of weekly care.

The easiest care for plants is preventative care, and so many busy housewives tell me that their plants get a weekly bath that I feel the idea might be well received by many more of this active group.

Most house plants have smooth leaves, and these may be kept in healthy condition by immersing them in a deep tub of mild, soapy water. The laundry tub is excellent, or some folks use the bath tub. Support the pot in one hand, and the weight of the foliage in the other, and gently plunge in and out of the water. The important point is to see that the underside of each leaf is washed. Rinse carefully in the same manner, using clear tepid water. Stand to drain thoroughly before replacing in a sunny window.

This job should be done in the morning, so that the foliage may be free from spots of moisture before they are subjected to cooler night air.

Large leaves such as those of philodendrons, aspidistras, fath-sheders and palms may be wiped dry with a clean soft cloth.

There are several advantages to this weekly cleansing. The most obvious benefit is the removal of dust from the foliage, thus allowing the plants to breathe. Secondly, any incipient insect pest would be dislodged and removed before doing any damage. Finally the moisture retained by the leaves, and also the pot itself, will not only make for better general health, since the average home is lacking in humidity, but will discourage the appearance of red spider.

This last pest is very tiny, scarcely visible to the unaided eye, and thrives in hot, dry conditions; either summer or winter.

Scale insects, which are like shiny brown shells when mature, must be scrubbed off the leaves of palms, ornamental citrus and rubber plants. An old toothbrush dipped in soap and water is useful; rinse with clear water.

Woolly aphis and mealy bug, which look like specks of absorbent cotton, should be treated with methyl-hydrate (wood alcohol). Tip the end of a toothpick with absorbent cotton, dip in alcohol and lightly touch the white speck.

Viduals May Leave Loop

Future Of Victoria's Intercity Team In Doubt

Victoria may drop out of the Intercity Basketball League. Due to the action of the league commission in dropping Bellingham from the proposed circuit, Victoria officials are dubious that a league comprising Victoria, Alberni and Vancouver would draw sufficiently well to meet travelling expenses.

Victoria Individual coach Norm Baker today said, "I don't know if we will be having a team or not as things stand right now."

Bellingham was deleted from the league when coach Gail Bishop admitted that he would be forced to pay his players if he wanted a good team. Word of his admission reached the Canadian Amateur Basketball Association and they advised the Intercity League to drop Bellingham on the grounds that the American entry would be a professional team.

Baker explained that he was expecting Bellingham to be the best drawing team in the loop. Now he does not feel that the all-Canadian league would be financially successful. Baker phoned Wilf Cain, British Columbia Amateur Basketball Association Thursday night and told him of the Victoria situation. Cain was greatly disappointed to hear of the imminent crumbling of the league and promised to phone I.C.B.L. commissioner Ebbie Bowering to see if a new arrangement could be made regarding Bellingham.

With the league set to open Nov. 12, Cain asked Baker to take a chance and see how Vancouver teams would draw in their first games. He said that any loss incurred in those would be absorbed by the league.

NEW LEAGUE

No matter what happens, it is still practically a certainty there will be senior A basketball in Victoria. Baker said this morning that he may try to form a league between Victoria, Alberni and Bellingham, excluding Vancouver. He believes that these three centres would all be financially successful while an all-Canadian loop would result in loss of money for everyone concerned.

Minor Soccer Scheduled At Week-End

Following is the schedule of week-end games in the Lower Island Junior and Juvenile Football Association.

Saturday: Fourth Division—Mickle vs. Eagles, lower Beacon Hill Park at 1; Comhine Pee Wee vs. St. Louis College, upper Beacon Hill Park at 1.
Third Division—Tribulation Altar vs. Sunday Junior Division—Hawes vs. Cowichan Braves, lower Beacon Hill Park at 1. Victoria College Vikings vs. Victoria Cougars, Sheilbourne Park at 2.30.
Second Division—Mayrock Optical vs. Army, Navy, Air Force Vets, upper Beacon Hill Park at 1.

CITY SOCCER VENUE CHANGE

Due to work being done on the drainage system at Athletic Park, the Victoria and District Soccer Association has been forced to change the venues of two of its week-end games.

On Saturday, the game between Wests and Legion, originally scheduled for Athletic Park, has been switched to lower Beacon Hill. The Esquimalt - Duncan game goes from lower Beacon Hill to Bullen Park. Both games start at 2.30.

Sunday's match, between Heaneys and Alcos, will be played at lower Beacon Hill at 2.45.

Walcott-Marciano Bout Vetoed By Charles Camp

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (UP)—Jersey Joe Walcott's manager proposed today that the heavy-weight champion defend his crown against young Rocky Marciano in February, instead of against former champion Ezzard Charles.

Felix Boechicchio, pilot of the champion from Camden, N.J., also suggested that the winner of a Walcott-Marciano bout defend the title against Charles in June.

Boechicchio made his proposal in reply to a proposal by promoter Jim Norris of the International Boxing Club that Walcott defend against Charles in February at Miami, Fla., with that winner to meet Marciano in June.

The Walcott camp had originally intended that he wait until June to make his first defense against Charles.

Norris said he reminded Boechicchio that Charles was guaranteed a return bout against Walcott, and Norris added that he would not attempt to by-pass Charles in order to give the first chance to Marciano, recent knockout conqueror of Joe Louis. The Charles camp, moreover, indicated it did not intend to be by-passed.

Norris said that Tom Tannas, co-manager of Charles, had told him by telephone that the champion would be "delighted" to advance the date of a Walcott bout from June to February, but that he would absolutely refuse to step aside for Marciano.

Norris said he believed a Walcott-Charles bout in Miami in February would draw total proceeds of about $400,000 from gate, movies and television. The promoter said there is no coaxial television cable running north from Miami, but that one may be installed before February.

On the OUTDOOR FRONT

By ROY THORSEN

Many hunters, vitally conscious that today's breeding season is what we rely on for the future supply of buck deer, are opposed to the decision extending the 1951 deer season until Nov. 12.

The extension was granted by Gordon Wismer, B.C.'s A.G., who heads the game department. Reason is that the forest closure delayed the opening of the season.

"Sure, we appreciate the fact that the A.G. is trying to give us more time on the game trails for the bucks, but it should not be overlooked that the mating season is now in progress and that what we've got until Nov. 12 are bucks that are likely to provide more game for us in the future," one conservative-minded sportman confided.

I would say that the average guy we've got in our sportmen's organizations doesn't want to make the big haul today that will spoil the chances of the future and grise. They are Stan and Tommy Kirkinson and the McClintock brothers, Lee, Don and Charlie.

But Joe Gibault of the sportsman's store bearing his name tells me that some people do a lot better in the interior than even the previously mentioned. Wilfred Hepman and Charlie Neaves came back from Burns Lake with two massive moose apiece. He didn't say what other game they got.

Clerk of the new municipality, Goldstream and boathouse operators tell us that abalone, Tom Mack and bucktail flies did well this week.

Here's what some caught: H. Hett, 1 spring, 3 grise; Chas. Panting, 1 spring; Jumbo Davies, 6 grise; Mr. and Mrs. R. Gorton, 5 grise; T. A. Heaslip, 2 jacks, 3 grise; J. Menard and party, 7 grise; Dr. W. Dennis, 1 jack and 4 grise; Mr. and Mrs. E. Davies, 7 grise.

J. Wilson and H. Randall, 1 spring, 5 grise; B. Croft and W. June, limit of 20 grise; Mr. and Mrs. Holmes, 2 springs, 1 grise; R. W. Ray, 6 grise; Mr. and Mrs. E. Hindley, 5 grise; L. Dickson, L. J. Coulcher, limit catch of 4 springs, 1 coho, 15 grise; H. Craig and A. Foster, 2 springs and 3 grise; L. Cotton, 1 spring and 6 grise.

That angling wizard, Len Larson, who can show most of the experts a lot about the art of angling, tells me that while grise (large ones) and jackspring fishing was really hot during the latter part of last week, it fell off badly this week. He got a "nix" in three mornings of trying—and that means tough sleddin' for the amateur.

However, Sam Lane and Bridgman Bill Rakekin, of Friday Harbor, reeled in 18 grise at the first point out from Brentwood Bay on Thursday in 1 1/2 hours.

Lane also got 8 nice grise off Brochey Ledge on Wednesday.

"There's a lot of humpback in the inlet right now . . . they're jumpin' all around—but are not a spoon-bitten salmon. Right now at this portion of the inlet I'd say fishing is not good," said honest Len.

Grise Being Taken On Bucktail

Last Thursday B. Croft reeled in 10 grise on the bucktail fly in Misery Bay . . . and grise are being caught generally all over the inlet by an assortment of lures . . . dusk and dawn being best for jacks.

"Gosh, I'd sure like to latch into a trout with this tackle!"

That was the expression from Fire Chief Bob Brindle this week, on the occasion of his retirement as chief of the Victoria Fire Department to close a 39-year service record as a local fire-fighter, after he had been presented with one of those No. 1 fly fishing rods by Hardy.

VANCOUVER, Nov. 2 (CP)—New Westminster Royals today had another chance to prove soccer hasn't died a natural death in the Royal City.

Pacific Coast Soccer League officials had threatened Wednesday to stop scheduled games at New Westminster's Queen's Park Stadium because of lack of support.

But last night, at the league's regular monthly meeting, Royals' delegate Vic Sortwell talked them into giving the club another chance.

VANCOUVER HERE SATURDAY

Stamps First Test In Cats' Rugged Schedule

Victoria Cougars face one of the most important home stands of the young P.C.H.L. season tonight and Saturday when they play host to Calgary Stampers and Vancouver Canucks.

Not only are the Cougars out to snap a three-game losing streak, but also coach Roger Leger is looking forward to the future—and that future is next week.

For beginning with next week the Cats embark on their heaviest schedule to date—a schedule that could either make or break the club in the first half of the league race.

After Saturday's game against the Canucks, who are as yet winless this year, the Cougars start the heavy grind on Tuesday against the Canucks at home. On Wednesday, it's a trip to Seattle followed by the appearance of the Ironmen here a week from tonight.

Then follows a contest at New Westminster Nov. 10 and three games on the prairies, Nov. 12, 13 and 14, the Cougars returning home Nov. 16 against Tacoma Rockets.

In all, it adds up to 10 games in 15 days. First step on this rugged trail comes tonight with the first appearance here this year of the Calgary Stampers.

The Stampers are a well-balanced club who have on occasions this year shown flashes of power. In their first two starts on the west coast, coach Tommy Anderson's club tied with Vancouver and dropped a 4-3 decision to Tacoma.

All members of the Cougars will be on hand for the game, forward Jack McIntyre having recovered sufficiently from a bruised back muscle to take his regular turn on the ice.

Kirchner Wins Honors In Invitational Road Race

Pete Kirchner carried the colors of Victoria High School to glory Thursday when he won a 3 1/2-mile invitational road race from 24 runners from Oak Bay High, Royal Roads, Victoria College, Oak Bay High and V.H.S.

He completed the course in the excellent time of 17 minutes 21 seconds, finishing the run a good three hundred yards ahead of his nearest challenger, Dick Elliott of Victoria College.

The race started off with a lap around the cinder track and then went for approximately three miles on the open road and finished with another lap around the quarter-mile oval.

Don Burgess, a Vic High favorite who was scheduled to run in the event, was kept out by a knee injury sustained in a rugby game Wednesday.

The runners placing in the first 10 were, in order of position: Kirchner (V.H.S.), Elliott (V.C.), Altwasser (R.R.), Wood (V.H.S.), Watson (R.R.), Evans (R.R.), Eyre (R.R.), Goodall (V.H.S.), Owen (V.H.S.) and Thomson (V.H.S.).

The invitational race served as practice session to get in shape for the Royal Roads invitational race which will take place Nov. 20.

BIG ROG STEALS SHOW

Times Carriers Have Night Out

Kids will be kids, no matter what the occasion. But perhaps it would be in error to call these fellows "kids."

The occasion was presentation night to members of the Times junior salesmen division at the Club Sirocco Thursday. Upwards of 80 attended complete with the Times hierarchy, who only by sheer force of their position managed to keep the party in control.

At least the brass kept matters in hand until a favorite of every red-blooded Victoria youngster was introduced from the dais.

Many had gone before—their remarks had been appreciated; the applause had been of necessity rather than spontaneous, but not so when epoch Roger Leger of the Cougars rose to his feet.

As Times Publisher Stuart Keate said: "It sounded like an atom bomb—had landed in the club."

And Big Rog certainly appreciated the gesture. He admitted he wasn't used to this sort of thing; said he would rather give the Cougars heck in the dressing room; cautioned the youngsters not to sell any papers when the Cougars lost, but to redouble their efforts when the club won.

There were other famous celebrities, too. Carrier 52, who once got $12 a month for delivering the Times, was introduced as managing editor Les Fox and . . . but this was the kids' night out.

The big star of the evening Times circulation-wise was Lloyd Mackey.

Lloyd, it seems, has eyes on old carrier 52's present job. That's what he told publisher Stuart Keate when he accepted the bicycle and silver trophy once went with his first prize of 67 new subscriptions in the recent junior salesman drive.

There were other salesmen, too—there were Joe and Mike, Albert and Pete, Stinky from James Bay—salesman all. Salesman all, that is until the floor show was announced after the prize-giving.

The evening passed; the show was a success. The lucky, or rather the top, salesman pocketed the crisp greenbacks that went with silver and bronze medals—but best of all the Times circulation was announced at an all-time high.

"Kids," did we say? Not likely. These were the salesmen who made it so. Times circulation director Stew Kidd said it. And so did others.

A gift to Leger of a box of cigars from the Times carriers was presented by Mike Kersey.

VIC HIGH TOTEMS HOST GRADS IN HOMECOMING

It will be homecoming night tonight at Victoria High School when the grads play the Totems.

The annual game which pits the ex-Totems, players of past years who have since graduated, against the Totems of the present year in a basketball game that is one of the highlights of the sports calendar at the high school.

Tonight's game officially opens the season for the Totems as they embark on season of exhibition tilts.

Starting at 9, the feature game will be preceded by a preliminary tilt between the Totems B team and an all-star junior team at 7.30. Adding color to the evening will be a 20-piece band and majorettes.

Referee Named In Hoop Scandal

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (UP)—The sports bribery scandal spread to professional basketball with the arrest today of referee Sol Levy on charges of taking $3,000 in bribes.

Since Levy was the first official of either the college or pro sport to be arrested, that, too, marked a sudden new turn in the investigation of "fixed" basketball games.

Levy, 41, was arrested this morning after all-night questioning at the District Attorney's office. He was accused of accepting $1,000 each for three games played in November, 1950—"To officiate in such a manner that the point spread would be shaved."

In other words, Levy was charged with regulating the game so as to limit the winning margin of one team, holding it below the margin predicted in waging odds.

All three games were played in the National Basketball Association, the "Major League" of the professional court sport.

District Attorney Frank Hogan named the Nov. 11, 1950 game, in which the Boston Celtics defeated the Washington Capitals, 78 to 77, at Washington, as the first game for which Levy accepted a bribe. The second was the following night at Boston where the same Celtics defeated the Indianapolis Olympians, 78 to 75.

A spokesman for the district attorney's office said that in these two games the "bribe" was for Levy to keep Boston's victory "under" the predicted point spread, and he added that it "apparently succeeded."

Bantam Rugger To Play In Holiday Encounters

Bantam rugby teams may get a chance to play in Macdonald Park on Nov. 10 and Nov. 12. With the Armistice Day holiday occurring on Nov. 12, the Victoria Rugby Union wants to pit the Crusaders against the Wanderers on Nov. 10, and then play J.B.A.A. and Victoria on the Monday.

There is also the chance that games could be arranged between the private schools in the city, or with the Shawnigan Lake boys' school.

Put your ten-gallon hat back in mothballs, because the Calgary Stampedeers rugby team will not be here. The reason for the change of plans is because a playing field will not be available in Vancouver for the date when they want to come to the coast.

The Vancouver-Calgary game was to have been played at

Canucks Add Reinforcements To Weak Squad

VANCOUVER, Nov. 2 (UP)—Reinforcements for the hard-pressed Vancouver Canucks of the Pacific Coast Hockey League have arrived here from Buffalo, N.Y.

Owner Coley Hall said Hugh Currie, one of the American League's top playmakers, will be out on the ice for the Canucks when they meet the Tacoma Rockets tonight.

The other new addition is Lorne Davis, who can play either left or right wing. He had a three-game trial with the Victoria Cougars last year before heading east to join the Montreal Royals, where he finished out the season. He attended the Montreal Canadiens training camp this summer before being shipped to Buffalo.

The pair will replace Frank Bathgate and Ronnie Rowe. Bathgate is headed for Montreal, N.B., but Rowe's destination is still to be decided.

NEW YORK—Juan Padilla, 139 Mexico City, outpointed Johnny Kramer, 137 Montreal, N.Y. 8.

Rocket Lets Loose Again

Draws Double Major, Misconduct For Fracas

Taciturn Maurice Richard does most of his talking with a hockey stick. But when that stick does other things besides score goals, the reverberations are heard throughout the National Hockey League. Look what happens:

His Montreal Canadiens drop two straight to Toronto Maple Leafs and give up second position behind Detroit Red Wings to the not-so-timid Stanley Cup champions. Maurice doesn't score a goal in the 120 minutes, but he is the talk of the sports pages with his non-scoring shenanigans.

The Montrealers were walloped 4-2 on home ice last night following the 10 Halloween night loss at Toronto and, apart from the switch in positions, the steady parade to the penalty box and first aid rooms for attention, high-flying Maurice was a one-man riot.

Now Canadiens are in a third-place tie with Boston's surprising Bruins who dumped the Red Wings 3-2 at Detroit last night. The other game of the night saw Chicago Black Hawks whip the Rangers 4-2 before a 4,994-crowd at New York, the smallest attendance of the N.H.L. season.

A season's high crowd of 14,780 squeezed into Montreal Forum undoubtedly attracted by the Halloween snorter when Richard made a pass at a spectator with his stick and tempers were at the breaking point among the players. And those who like to see blood with their hockey weren't disappointed.

FREE-FOR-ALL
Richard, still looking for the 300th goal of his N.H.L. career, was in the middle of the delayed fireworks — a rip-snorting 10-minute free-for-all in the second period with Richard taking on defensemen Fern Flaman and Bill Juzda. When the players were untangled the penalty count read:

Richard, double major and game misconduct which automatically draws a $50 fine; Flaman, a major and a game misconduct; Butch Bouchard of Canadiens and Juzda, majors. Things had hardly settled down when Ken Mosdell was given a major for slamming defenseman Gus Morton into the boards and drawing blood. Apart from these five-minute sentences, Leafs received six minors and Canadiens three.

England Out For 203 Runs Against India

NEW DELHI, Nov. 2 (Reuters)—England today was dismissed for 203 runs by India on the opening day of their first cricket test match.

The pitch, thought to be a batsman's paradise, quickly helped the slow bowlers and not one of England's batsmen looked really comfortable against the spin bowling.

Jack Robertson (5), Don Kenyon (35) and Alan Watkins (40) made some effort to knock the bowlers off their length, but they all paid the penalty eventually. Wrecker-in-chief of England's batting was leg spinner S. G. Shinde, who took six wickets for 91.

India has yet to win an official test against England.

Eskimos Host In Grid Final

Football fans could take a tip from the greenhorn racing enthusiast this Saturday and employ the hat-pin method of selecting winners. Practically every game on the senior front is loaded with possibilities.

In Edmonton, it is the start of the best-of-three western football final with the Eskimos and Saskatchewan Roughriders. The boys are playing it cute.

Coach Annis Stukus of the Eskos has his players practising forward-pass plays — observers say they're the fancy type — while intelligence from the Roughies camp say coach Harry Smith is preparing a defense for Edmonton's hard-running ground attack.

"We'll pass 'em this week," Stukus said last night.

Edmonton needs the victory on home grounds because it will be the last time this season the Eskimos will play at Clarke Stadium. After Saturday's game, the series move to Regina for the wind-up.

In the Big Four, a crowd of 27,000 is almost assured for the Toronto Argonauts-Ottawa Roughriders scheduled finale. Argos, in a second-place tie with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, have beaten Riders every time out this season. This is their big one.

Coach Paul McGarry of Toronto Balmy Beach in the Ontario Rugby Football Union is the most confident coach in the country. He figures the Beaches to whip Sarnia Imperials by at least 15 points in the opener of the home-and-home total-point series at Toronto Saturday night.

The Intercollegiate Union heads into the home stretch with McGill meeting Queen's at Montreal and the unbeaten University of Toronto Blues tangle with the University of Western Ontario Mustangs at London.

Atlantic, Gulf Ports' Shipping Paralysis Seen

A.F.L. Ships' Officers Ready To Start New Waterfront Walkout As N.Y. Dockers Out

NEW YORK, Nov. 2 (UP)—A.F.L. ships' officers got ready today to start a new waterfront walkout that would paralyze American shipping in every Atlantic and gulf port.

While 12,000 members of the Masters, Mates and Pilots (A.F.L.) awaited their midnight call to the picket line, state authorities moved to end the longest dock strike in the history of the nation's largest port.

Defiant members of the International Longshoremen's Association (A.F.L.) were pepped up by the prospect that the ships' officers would tie up 600 Atlantic and Gulf ships and showed no signs of ending their 19-day-old walkout.

The longest previous strikes along the sprawling New York waterfront lasted 18 days.

Mediators who conducted all-day talks with the ships' officers Thursday reported "no progress," and state conciliators said they had failed in their attempts to send the rebel dock hands back to work.

State Mediation Board Chairman Merlyn S. Pitzele announced Thursday he would certify the longshoremen's dispute to state industrial commissioner Edward Corsi, who is empowered to appoint a fact-finding board.

Corsi said he hoped he would complete selection of a five-man citizens' panel before nightfall.

The wildcaters voted Thursday to prolong their strike by ignoring Pitzele's action.

"We don't want a fact-finding board," John (Gene) Sampson, leader of the 20,000 strikers, said Thursday. "We have the facts."

Sampson's faction, who revolted against I.L.A. President Joseph P. Ryan in an intra-union dispute, gave Sampson a noisy vote of confidence at a mass meeting in Brooklyn.

Retired Workers To Get Pensions

OTTAWA, Nov. 2 (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier gave assurance Thursday that no retired employee of Canadian National Railways will suffer loss of C.N.R. pension benefits through acceptance of the new $40-a-month old-age security payments. He told Stanley Knowles (C.C.F., Winnipeg North Centre) in the Commons that no pension will be "reduced, withdrawn or withheld" because of the new federal pension, which begins Jan. 1.

WILLIE WITHERSPOON was a gambler, you know, the kind of guy who'd bet on anything. Willie told Mrs. Witherspoon, "No sense putting in the anti-freeze yet. I'll bet this mild weather keeps up till January." Too bad about Willie. Or didn't you hear? Split radiator, cracked block—damage $285.

MORAL Have your Shell Dealer install Shellzone permanent Anti-Freeze today or first thing tomorrow—the supply may not last. Shellzone, when installed by your Shell Dealer, carries a guarantee, in writing, for winter-long trouble-free cooling system protection.

5 Die In Casablanca Election Riots

CASABLANCA, French Morocco, Nov. 2 (UP)—Police and hastily-summoned army troops beat back thousands of native rioters today with machine gun fire and rifle bullets.

At least five persons were killed and 70 injured. Authorities arrested some 500 rioters.

The battling broke out at noon Thursday and continued until early today. It started when some 1,000 Moroccans armed with knives and stones tried to halt local elections. Thousands of others joined the rioting during the night.

They claimed the advanced election date favored their French rulers. Nationalist leaders have been demanding Morocco's independence here and at the United Nations.

Rioting turned for a time on European residential homes. The U.S. consulate reported no American troops or civilians have been harmed.

(A government spokesman in Paris said French authorities are now in control of the situation. He blamed the outbreak on "extremists and terrorists.")

One American truck, a police car and several European vehicles were overturned and set ablaze during the night. French Senegalese troops hurried to the city from out-of-town posts to reinforce police and restore order.

Police, ordered previously not to open fire, said they did so in self-defense. They poured a volley of fire on rioters in the Medina native quarter, scene of the main riots, and later turned back natives trying to raid a French army barracks.

Authorities cordoned off the Medina section and launched a drive to clear out the centre of the city.

The riots came in outright defiance to a warning from French resident Gen. Augustin Guillaume that he would not tolerate any terrorism.

Do you own your farm, Mr. Lewis?

Yes. I took over it from my mother about 25 years ago.

Do you like farming?

Yes. I sure wouldn't be at it if I didn't.

Do you believe in saving?

Oh, yes.

How do you save?

Mainly by Canada Savings Bonds. I buy several every time they are on sale.

Why do you buy these Bonds?

I can lay my hand on them whenever I need money.

Why do you prefer them to other forms of investment?

I consider them safest. I could invest my money in other ways that would bring in more at greater risk, but I want to be sure of a safe investment and a steady revenue.

Have you cashed any of the Canada Savings Bonds you bought?

Yes. I did once because I needed some extra money to buy a new tractor.

How do you pay for the Bonds?

When they're on sale, I take what spare money I have from my bank account and buy the bonds outright.

Do you plan to buy some more this Fall?

Yes.

NOW BETTER THAN EVER

Winnipeg To Test Flood Defense

WINNIPEG, Nov. 2 (CP)—Greater Winnipeg's second line of defense against a recurrence of last year's Red River flood, 21 pumping stations scattered throughout the suburbs, get a final test run this week.

The main worry now is maintenance of the stations so they will be in top shape if ever needed to battle high water. Engineers are agreed that one authority should handle all the stations in the city and its adjacent suburbs, six municipalities in all.

The pumping stations are secondary defense to the 25 miles of diked roadways which now line the Red River through Winnipeg. The stations cost $2,187,000. They will be unused until the Red floods again.

North's Cold Snap

CHURCHILL, Man., Nov. 2 (CP)—Cold weather hit this northern Manitoba town with a bang.

A party of Indians traveling with sled dogs arrived today from North River after crossing the ice of Churchill River. The Indians were the first to cross the river ice this season.

Ice blocks which will be the town's main water supply for the next seven months now is being piled beside kitchen doors. Almost all homes in Churchill depend on melted ice for cooking and other domestic uses.

Poachers Caught

DAUPHIN, Man., Nov. 2 (CP)—A poacher's nightmare that began Sunday in Riding Mountain National Park when 28 Mounties in scarlet tunics descended on three hunters loading meat of an elk into a car had its sequel Thursday in police court.

The hunters—Dawson Sisson, James McKillop and Robney Dewar, all of Dauphin—were convicted of unlawfully hunting game in a national park and fined a total of $250 or two months in jail.

The Mounties, headed by an inspector and decked out in their No. 1 uniforms, were en route to Rivers, Man., for the visit of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh when they came upon the hunting party south of Dauphin. All eight of the Mounties' cars stopped and the police piled out around the hapless hunters.

The auto had been borrowed from a Dauphin resident. It was seized by the police but returned today when evidence indicated he did not know how it was to be employed.

A rifle, ammunition, knife and other hunting equipment, and the meat of the elk—from 300 to 350 pounds—was ordered confiscated.

Sissons was fined $100, McKillop and Dewar $75 each, plus costs.

Accidents Kill 2

CALGARY, Nov. 2 (CP)—Highway accidents Thursday claimed two lives in southern Alberta.

Twelve-year-old Annie Dyck of Brooks, Alta., died of injuries suffered when struck by a truck just north of the town, about 150 miles southeast of Calgary.

Moses Jimm John, 21-year-old Indian of the Stoney Reserve at Morley, Alta., died in hospital after being struck by a car on the highway near Morley. He was changing a tire chain on his car at the time.

House Of Lords Headed For Legislative Fadeout

By ROBERT MUSEL

LONDON, Nov. 2 (UP)—The hereditary House of Lords is on its way out as a lawmaking body after some 700 years, and Winston Churchill, whose kinfolk have been sitting there since 1603, is helping along its dissolution.

The prime minister pushed the time-encrusted institution closer to what many consider its inevitable end when he appointed the Marquis of Salisbury, Conservative leader of the Upper House.

Salisbury has been one of the key figures in discussions looking toward the final legislative fadeout of the descendants of the bold barons who forced King John to affix his seal to the Magna Charta in 1215 and opened the way to representative government.

PARTY AGREEMENT

For several years there has been a wide measure of agreement among all parties on the end of the hereditary principle, which holds that because some knight in armor battered down the King's enemies long ago, his descendants for all time have the right to make laws for the rest of the people.

In its place all parties seem to agree there should be a chamber of elder statesmen and stateswomen chosen for personal distinction and public service and known as the lords of parliament.

This would be less colorful than the present House of Lords, whose members sometimes wear coronets and robes of scarlet and ermine.

But it might be more efficient. Many bearers of great and ancient names seem reluctant to leave their ivy-covered castles for the noise of Westminster, and the present Lords has never been attended except in dire emergencies.

NO PROTESTS

A good number of these "back-woodsmen" as they are called, have scarcely raised a voice against proposals to dissolve the House of Lords, even those whose family roots go back to 1235 when the idea of a council to advise the King began to take definite shape.

The big obstacles to reform of Lords are these: The Socialists claim Churchill's method of changing membership qualifications would "pack" it, and future Labor government would find it difficult to pass legislation.

The Tories want, in addition to the elder statesmen, membership for certain members of the Royal Family, certain high churchmen and legal officers of the crown.

The Socialists also want guarantees that the new House won't have a permanent one-party majority. The present lords is overwhelming Conservative.

All parties are agreed that the new House should not be an elected body since it is to be complementary to Commons, not its rival, and that there ought to be some sort of pay so not only the rich could accept appointment. Its duties would be to debate and revise legislation sent it by Commons.

APPOINTMENT OF the Marquis of Salisbury as government leader in the House of Lords is seen as prelude to the ending of that venerable institution.

Records Shattered

SASKATOON, Nov. 2 (CP)—Civic voting records were shattered here Wednesday when 13,000 persons braved bitterly cold weather to go to the polls. This was almost twice the number who voted last year and was about 2,000 more than had ever voted before in a civic campaign.

Heavy voting was attributed to a keen mayoralty campaign and to widespread interest in a $1,300,000 money bill for renovation of the City Hospital. The by-law carried by almost 2½ votes to one. Three other money bills, one for $70,000 to pipe warm water from the powerhouse to the waterworks, passed easily by four-to-one majorities.

Ald. Walker topped the aldermanic polls with 9,855 votes, the largest number ever polled by any civic candidate.

Go See It.. For an Inspiration!

You ought to go and look at a Cadillac. You ought to walk around it and look at it from every angle—and you ought to open the door and get in and sit down.

You ought to slide over behind the wheel and look out over that jewel-like dash into the wonderful, exciting beyond.

And you ought to do this, whatever the car you own today—and whatever the car you expect to own.

For it will lift up your spirits and give you an inspiring picture of all that is meant by superb automotive craftsmanship.

Yes—it's an inspiration just to see it. You look at those beautiful, flowing lines—and you can't escape the conviction that Cadillac's artistry in metals is unsurpassed in all the world.

You look at the wonderful fabrics that tailor the seats and cushions—and you realize that Cadillac is unapproached for sumptuous luxury and faultless dignity.

You look at the flawless execution of every structural detail—and you recognize the undoubted fact that Cadillac craftsmanship is in a class by itself.

But your greatest inspiration is yet to come. You ask the attendant on the display room floor to give you the price of the lowest-priced Cadillac model—and you find that it's within the means of a broad range of discriminating Canadian families.

Where else, in all the world—you ask yourself—could there be such a blending of luxury and practicality? And the answer, of course, is—"nowhere." Cadillac, and only Cadillac, has so much to offer.

Since you're coming in to see the car, we won't try to tell you too much about it. But come with your hopes set high.

For here is the new standard for the automotive world. It is new in beauty, in comfort, in luxury and in performance.

We'll be looking for you—some day soon.

Victoria Theatre Guild is making history.

Saturday night it will close a hit, "Born Yesterday," with the public and guild members still clamoring for tickets.

"We are somewhat embarrassed," president Henry Stubbings admitted today, "but it will be technically impossible for us to stage the show after Saturday night."

Edward V. Smith, 31, of 1028 Pendergast, who Saanich police say led them off on a "wild goose chase" with an acid-throwing story, was expected to be released from Jubilee Hospital today.

Smith has been charged in hospital with creating a public mischief and will appear in police court, probably Saturday morning.

Smith is reported to have confessed to Saanich police that his story of a youth squirting acid in face was a hoax.

A $96 County Court damage suit of Douglas G. Perry, Salt Spring Island, against O. Leigh Spencer, was reserved by Judge H. H. Shandley Thursday.

The damage action arose out of two automobile accidents. Dr. Perry claimed that while he was attending a funeral service, Spencer's car collided with his automobile parked outside a church.

Three days later, the physician alleged that Spencer again collided, with his car parked alongside a highway on Salt Spring Island.

Dr. Perry's claim is for damages caused to his car in the two collisions.

Four motorists in city police court today paid fines totaling $140 for careless driving.

Fined $35 each were Albert Sutherland, 12 Boyd; Hugh C. Dunbar, Belmont housing project; Jean O. Ferguson, Tod Inlet, and Thomas A. Haskin, 2725 Douglas. Dunbar also got a license suspension.

All pleaded guilty except Sutherland.

William A. Luesley, no fixed address, was remanded to Nov. 6 for sentence on a charge of unlawfully being in possession of a narcotic when he appeared in city court today. He changed his earlier plea of not guilty to one of guilty.

Cpl. Reg. Whittaker, of the R.C.M.P. narcotics squad, told the court that a syringe found in accused's possession contained traces of morphine sulphate.

Wage requests of the city's inside and outside staffs and the Public Library are expected to be presented to City Manager G. Wyatt next week.

It is anticipated substantial increases will be sought on grounds of the increased cost of living. Roy Wootton, business agent, said today.

If you are planning on sending Christmas parcels to men on the Canadian des-troyers in Korean waters you'd better get busy. Saturday is the deadline for such mail.

Air letters, however, will be accepted up to Dec. 3.

Win Pay Increase

A wage increase for federal civil servants will likely be announced by Ottawa the middle of this month or at the first of December, John Carey, president of the civil servants' association at Esquimalt Dockyard, said today.

Carey said he had received word that a wage increase was pending after submission had been made to Ottawa to have a cost-of-living bonus granted civil servants here in low-income brackets.

City Policemen Seeking $60 Monthly Wage Boost

Commissioners To Meet Next Week On Demand; Firemen Step Expected

A $60 a month increase in wages is being sought by members of the Victoria local of the Police Federal Union. It was learned today.

The union which bargains for approximately 85 men, based demands on the increased cost of living since the last agreement was signed.

Mayor Percy George, as chairman of the Police Commission received a copy of the request from the union and said there would be a special meeting of the commission next week to deal with the Union presentation.

At $60 a month per man, the requested total would be in the neighborhood of $61,000.

Victoria Local of the International Fire-Fighters' Association do not have to have their wage and condition requests into the city until Dec. 1.

It is anticipated that the firemen also will be asking for a considerable increase on grounds of the increased cost of living.

City Auction Set Monday On Tax Arrears Property

Sixty-Two Homes Liable With Three Years' Taxes Due; 19 Properties Sold Last Year

Some first-class city homes will go on the auction block at city hall Monday morning at 10, if owners do not pay up their taxes.

Club's Hobby Shop Needs Only Tools

The Optimist Club hobby shop clubroom, completed after a year's work by club members, will be opened at 937 Fairfield Road Nov. 14.

Ald. Frank Mulliner will open the new clubroom officially, club president Ted Baker told the Optimists at their weekly meeting Thursday in the Pacific Club.

Hobby shop tools to equip the $5,000 building are needed, and those willing to help the youth of Victoria who will be using the clubroom are being asked to phone Baker at E 5617.

WINS ESSAY AWARD

Lyn Churchill of 2281 Epworth Street has won second prize in an international essay contest sponsored by the Los Angeles Y.M.C.A.

The contest was open to all "Y" members up to 22 years of age, and was entered by thousands throughout Canada and the U.S.

Lyn's prize is a portable radio.

Sixty-two people are still in arrears according to Assessor Collector A. G. Joyce.

Earlier this month there were about 200 properties liable for sale, since taxes were three years in arrears. Payment of the 1949 taxes is sufficient to hold them for another year.

People don't realize the deadline is so close," said Joyce, who expects more properties will be redeemed before the sale.

If a property does go to tax sale, its owner has one year in which to redeem it by paying the three years' taxes, plus interest and costs. Last year only 19 properties went to tax sale.

Luxton Pressing For Gymnasium

LUXTON — Enlargement of the forthcoming by-law for school construction in Sooke School District 62 to include gymnasiums at Belmont and Milne's Landing high schools is being urged by Luxton rate-payers.

Abandonment of its lease for park purposes of "three or four lots" in Victoria West was approved by City Council parks committee Wednesday.

A recommendation will go to the council next week. The area bounded by Wilson, Alston and Esquimalt Road, was leased from the provincial government. Committee felt nearby Banfield Park now served the area.

DROUGHT-FREE

Sidney Only Beer Oasis In District

Victoria's beer drinkers will be beating a path to Sidney next week.

The beverage room at the new Hotel Sidney has its opening scheduled for Monday, just at the time all other beer parlors near this area expect to run out of stocks and shut down.

They'll stay closed until the brewery strike ends and beer in storage is no longer tagged as "hot."

A. M. Dore, owner of the Hotel Sidney, has on hand, however, 26 barrels of beer which he purchased before the strike.

MEET WITH MINISTER

A delegation of mainland hotel operators and beer parlor employees was expected to call on Labor Minister John Cates this afternoon to seek government action to end the walkout. Most Vancouver taverns had to close earlier this week.

Henry Nowotniak, business agent for the Victoria local of the Brewery and Distillery Workers' Union (C.C.L.), which is striking against the Phoenix Brewery here, said today he was keeping in touch with Vancouver, where pre-strike negotiations were conducted, but that there was nothing new to report.

Lot Leases Dropped Park Is Adequate

Abandonment of its lease for park purposes of "three or four lots" in Victoria West was approved by City Council parks committee Wednesday.

A recommendation will go to the council next week. The area bounded by Wilson, Alston and Esquimalt Road, was leased from the provincial government. Committee felt nearby Banfield Park now served the area.

ROLE OF DICK DEAD-EYE in forthcoming presentation of H.M.S. Pinafore by Victoria Gilbert and Sullivan Operatic Society will be played by Ivan Howell, well-known for many character parts he has taken in other society presentations. "Pinafore" will be presented at Royal Theatre, Nov. 20, 21 and 22, under sponsorship of Victoria Gyro Club.

Year-Around Playgrounds For Saanich

Leveling and seeding operations now nearing completion will make year-round playgrounds of Oak Street and Tolmie Parks in Saanich.

Councillor Grace Shaw, chairman of the municipal parks committee, said today the work is being financed out of a surplus left from the 1951 municipal year to the committee.

"We feel they will be more of an asset to residents this way," Mrs. Shaw said. "They will also be suitable for games throughout the year, instead of for the summer recreational program alone."

The work will make first-class parks of both grounds, Mrs. Shaw said. The committee hopes to continue a policy of major improvements to two parks each year until all reach a high standard.

New Traffic Chief Appointed By City

Creation of certain one-way streets, synchronization of traffic lights and solution of the downtown parking problem may be among first projects of Victoria's new traffic engineering assistant, it was indicated at city hall today.

These were matters on which Robert N. Doble, appointed Thursday, made definite proposals in his detailed five-month traffic survey report. The report was approved in principle by City Council.

Included in his sweeping changes for Victoria's traffic pattern were stricter law enforcement and increased fines for parking; abolition of the roundabout at Fountain Circle as a "future" project and peak-hour restrictions on raising of Johnson Street Bridge.

SAFETY ISLANDS

He called also for installation of safety islands on Douglas and stamping out of the practice of all day parking in restricted areas.

The 40-year-old electronics and communications technician who has been in the city's employ for the past 2½ years, designed the present police and fire radio system and the City Hall inter-communication system.

A "first" in Canada is his design for the fire alarm calling system in effect in Victoria.

Doble will make detailed plans and have estimates prepared so as to start on the first leg of the report's implementation in the new year.

WITH LONDON BOARD

Born in England, Doble was 19 years with the London Metropolitan Water Board. He served in the R.A.F. for 3½ years and did research on blind bombing and radar devices. He was in Europe with the Telecommunications Research Establishment, research unit of the R.A.F.

On his return to civilian life, he was personnel assistant to the chief planning engineer for the Metropolitan Water Board.

With his wife and daughter, Doble came to Victoria four years ago. They reside at 150 Douglas Street.

MEN'S SHOP ROBBED SIX TIMES DURING 10 YEARS' BUSINESS

This is some sort of record.

Les Palmer's clothing store at 714 View was broken into during the night—the sixth time in 10 years.

There was no money taken—but Palmer said that some shirts, a blazer, trousers and sweaters were stolen. Entry was gained by breaking two windows at the rear to enable the release of the door lock.

"The thieves threw things around a bit, but on the whole were fairly orderly," said Palmer.

Lloyd Mackey Wins Times' Sales Contest

Lloyd Mackey, grand champion in a recent Times junior salesmen contest, was presented with two handsome prizes at a banquet held for contestants Thursday night at Club Sirocco.

He received an engraved silver trophy and a three-speed Raleigh bicycle. Runner-up, Garry Allan, won a mantel radio and engraved gold medal.

District champions who each received $10 and an engraved silver medal were Brian Woodbridge, Bill Sanderson and Bruce Smith.

For station champions there was $5 and a bronze medal each. They were Doug Watson, Pat Rogers, Ron Marrs, Bob Hunter, Bill French, Brian Scott, George Philion, Ray Greenwood, Alan Murdoch, Don Fouracre, Monty Gill, Bob Provan and John Lancaster.

Wally Watson won the junior sales manager award.

Eye's Efficiency Beats Best Camera

The human eye is more efficient than the finest camera. A. H. Heaslip, optometrist, told fellow Rotarians at a luncheon meeting Thursday in the Empress Hotel.

He outlined the structure and functions of the eye and the nerve system operating it.

It would require some 11,000,000 different lenses to cover correction of every possible eye-sight defect, Heaslip said. Lenses in practical use are numbered in the "scores of thousands."

Civilization, with its increased demands on vision, brought about the use of spectacles, he said.

Tonight's Bride Honored

Miss Pat Sylvester, Fort Street, gave a china shower recently for bride-elect of this evening, Miss Peggy Sinclair. A box decorated in pink and white, with a miniature bride and groom under an arbor, held the gifts. The guest of honor received talisman roses and her mother, Mrs. A. Sinclair, and her fiancé's mother, Mrs. J. W. Parker, chrysanthemums.

Games were played during the evening, followed by a buffet supper.

Present were: Mrs. Becky Mitchell, Misses Pat Slaven, Lois Pink, Lois Nairne, Georgina Riemers, Jean Porter and Jean Sylvester.

P.T.A. Notes

Esquimalt—More than 700 children in costume attended Hallowe'en parties held in Lamson Street School; grades 1 to 5 in the afternoon and grades 6 to 8 in the evening. Prizes were awarded for best Hallowe'en, comic, national, historical, most original and best dressed. Judges were members representing Esquimalt council, celebration committee, firemen, ratepayers' association, Lions Club, community club, I.O.E., women's institute and women's auxiliary to Canadian Legion. Candy, ice cream and apples were distributed and there was a costume parade, moving pictures, singing and dancing. Principal N. Forbes and teachers R. Berod and Mrs. M. Hambrook assisted with festivities.

TODAY'S RECIPE

Sweeten to taste with corn syrup 2½ cups canned fruit or 3 cups fresh fruit plus ¾ cup water. Bring to the boil and thicken with 2 tablespoons flour dissolved in 3 tablespoons cold water. Cook 3 minutes. Pour into 8-inch greased casserole. Dot with butter and sprinkle with ½ teaspoon cinnamon.

Make a rich drop biscuit dough. To 2 cups prepared biscuit mix, add 2 tablespoons sugar. Cut in finely 4-tablespoons firm shortening. Stir in ¾ cup milk. Drop by spoonfuls on fruit mixture. Bake about 25 minutes in moderately hot oven, 400 degrees. Serve hot with cream. Serves 6 to 8.

Almond paste is a traditional topping for rich fruit cakes. To make it, put one cup blanched almonds through food chopper using finest knife. Combine with one cup sifted confectioners' sugar and one egg white with a drop or two almond extract to flavor.

Perfume That Clings
Q.—Dear Claire: I adore perfume, but for some reason or other its fragrance just does not last on me. I have told several of my friends that I want a new perfume, but first I must find out about a lasting one.—Mrs. A. W.

A.—A particularly good idea for women who claim that perfume does not "stay" with them is a brand new fragrance medium by Houbigant called Liquid Skin Sachet. It smooths on the skin very easily and lingers longer because of its sachet base. It has a slower rate of diffusion and evaporation than any other type of fragrance. Try this Houbigant Chantilly Liquid Skin Sachet. Only $2.00.

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

An Apple A Day Is Fine
Even If You Need Doctor

It's not a guarantee against the need of a doctor, but an apple a day is a fine health measure.

Q.—"Is there any truth in that old saying, 'An apple a day keeps the doctor away'?"

A.—Not literally, but it indicates the great value of fresh fruit in the diet. Also apples have quite a bit of roughage and an apple a day is therefore recommended for curing constipation.

Q.—"My waist measure 25½ inches, my bust 31½ inches, and my hips 33 inches. Where am I overweight?"

A.—Your waist measurement is too large for the others. This probably is due either to your age or your build because the other measurements do not indicate that you are overweight. If you are in your early teens your waist will slim naturally as you grow older. If it is merely a matter of structure we can't change that.

However, if you have fatty deposits around the waist, reducing exercises will help. If you want mine send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 6.

Q.—"I am 16 years old, 5 feet 2½ inches tall and weigh 101 pounds. I have no bust. I wear uplift bras. Would it prevent my bust from developing if I padded? All my friends are developed and they are my age or younger."

A.—Girls develop at different ages. You may yet develop, too. In the meantime, falsies will not hinder this development. You are quite a bit underweight. A gain would help fill out the bustline. Exercises would be an aid. If you want mine, send a stamped, self-addressed envelope with your request for leaflet No. 7.

Q.—"I am 14½ years old and very much overweight for my height and age. I am 5 feet 3 inches tall and weigh 126 pounds. My bust measures 34 inches, waist 26 inches and hips 38 inches. I know I am terribly out of proportion. I would appreciate any help you can give me."

A.—You are not a lot overweight—only around 10 pounds. You can lose that easily by just leaving off candy and soda fountain concoctions, fried foods and desserts for a while. Do not starve yourself but eat few seconds. Your figure will be in good proportion if you lose two inches from the hips. I suggest that you do hip-reducing exercises and follow the diet suggestion I have given you.

B.C. BOOM STORY HITS ANOTHER BIG MAGAZINE

The great land, mining and timber boom that is stirring British Columbia will be published throughout the U.S. and Canada in a long, illustrated article in the November issue of Popular Science monthly magazine. It has the whole story of B.C.'s recent immense strides in industry, and its growth in the fields of electricity, mining, minerals and oil.

The article points out more people have migrated to B.C. in the last 10 years than in the entire first half of the century. All in all, it says, the B.C. boom is far greater than the gold rush of '49.

Canadians Rush To Find Out If Blood Is Blue

LONDON, Nov. 1 (CP)—Cyril Hankinson, chief registrar of Britain's leading families, shuffled through a sheaf of letters today and wondered whether Canadians are suffering from a rush of blue blood to the head.

Every time the postman knocks nowadays at Hankinson's book-lined office on the Strand there's another letter from a Canadian who wants to know whether he's bred in the blue blood of kings or nobles.

Hankinson leafed through letters from Ladysmith, B.C., Vancouver, Halifax, Hamilton and Montreal.

"Nothing like this has ever happened before," said the 56-year-old editor of Britain's best-known Who's Who on peers and baronets. "Do you suppose Pearl Wilson is the cause of it all?"

Miss Wilson, a business woman in her 50's, wrote last April from Chatham, Ont., enclosing her family tree. She hit the jackpot. Research established beyond doubt that Miss Wilson is a direct descendant of the Emperor Charlemagne, King of the Franks in the eighth century.

Her pedigree boasts the blood of 20 noble families.

Whether or not Miss Wilson is responsible, Canadians started showing new interest in their ancestry early this summer. Hankinson's research staff now has letters from 50 to 60 families, mostly in British Columbia.

But the hunt for family trees is literally a call of the blood, and Debrett's is being neglected for the time being as men scrape Paris tombstones and thumb obscure records to determine whether a certain Canadian may be the descendant of a duke's daughter who eloped with her father's footman several centuries ago.

YOU CAN BE SURE... IF IT'S WESTINGHOUSE

I Refuse To Get Lame about sky-high food prices when there are so many good ways to save money. One of my favorite money-savers is delicious, country fresh BLUE BONNET margarine. Don't just take my word for it that Blue Bonnet is a money-wise buy. Compare flavour, nutrition and economy. You're in for a very pleasant surprise... and so is your budget! Yes, you get your money's worth of goodness when you buy Blue Bonnet. And, by the way, Blue Bonnet's famous YELLOW QUICK bag is now even stronger than ever. I know of no easier or faster way to colour margarine!

Baby Measures Up to your expectations when he grows strong and happy on a baby-wise diet. That's why so many mothers insist on foods made specially for baby. These good Heinz Pre-Cooked Cereals—and a little later—HEINZ STAINED BABY FOODS. Meat products, soups, vegetables and desserts—they're all expertly blended to give baby extra nourishment—all cooked to baby-ready digestibility. All you do is take them from the tin—warm them up and serve. And, mother—when baby is a little older—he'll need HEINZ JUNIOR FOODS to help build strong bones and a sturdy little body. Ask your dealer for Heinz Baby and Junior Foods! You know they're good because they're Heinz.

There's The Rub! With winter about to snow and blow colds in on us again, there's one sure way to get quick relief from chest cold misery—just rub in BEN-GAY (Bayer Bengel) and rub out "Peter Pan"! I find that whether "Peter Pan" strikes in a cold or headache, this rub-in breaks up congestion and gives happy relief, along with a soothing, nice warm feeling. It does the trick too, in chasing away muscular aches and strains. Ben-Gay is easy to apply... just rub it on the aching areas—yes, it's kind, even to a child's tender skin—and see how quickly you feel better. Always keep Ben-Gay on hand—the generous tube costs just 75¢ at your druggist's.

Statistics Prove That You're 364 Unbirthdays A Year! The Mad Hatter informed Alice in Walt Disney's production, "Alice in Wonderland," that 364 days a year that aren't birthdays, there should certainly be an UN-birthday Cake to celebrate occasionally—even if it's for no particular reason at all. That's why SWANS DOWN CAKE FLOUR has developed an UN-birthday-cake you should try. It's wonderful! Melting, fine-grained, light as a dream—but then, so is every cake made with Swans Down Cake Flour.

Flour package, but use a deep layer pan—one 10-inch, one 8-inch, lined on bottoms with paper, then greased. Cover larger cake with vanilla-flavored butter-cream frosting. Place smaller cake on top, cover with butter frosting. Melt 2 squares Baker's Unsweetened Chocolate and 2 tablespoons butter over hot water and blend. Pour slightly cooled chocolate mixture over the set frosting on cake layers, letting it run down sides. Keep cake in cool place until chocolate is firm.

There's Lots Of Zip to this Season's popular skirt—and blouse fashion! Particularly when your blouse-and-skirt "twosomes" are zipped with LIGHTNING SLIDE FASTENERS! So here's a tip when you're buying... the handsome new, suiting, blouse-and-skirt twosome, Lightning Style No. 702 for becoming fit. If your skirt is lightweight, Style 702 will be just right for it, too. If it's heavyweight, better buy Lightning Style No. 805. Never before have zippers played such an important part in fashion... blouse sleeves and those new turtle-neck-lines need them... and, for skirts, full or sleek—they're a must. But be sure your zipper is a Lightning! It's fast, flexible, it's durable—and it has that "one-and-only" self-locking automatic slider that never, never slips!

Exciting—Gorgeous—Completely Delicious... is that the way you like your desserts? Then here's a dessert recipe you'll love. The secret of its success is the fresh lemon flavour of SUNKIST LEMONS. They're the finest, juiciest lemons grown. Just wait till you taste this... Lemon Cake Top Pudding...

It's A Pleasure! A warm and fragrant bath after a busy day of housework is a luxury we can all afford. And so is a C-I-L COLOURED SPONGE for the bath! Yes, those grand C-I-L Sponges come in five colours to blend with your bathroom colour scheme. Every member of your family can have a "personalized" bath sponge. Soft as velvet when wet, C-I-L Cellulose Sponges are kind to even a baby's tender skin. They float—hold twenty times their weight in water—and they're so clean and sanitary. Ask for C-I-L Sponges at grocery, drug, variety, hardware or department stores. C-I-L Sponges have been awarded the "Champion Institute Seal of Approval"—your assurance of quality.

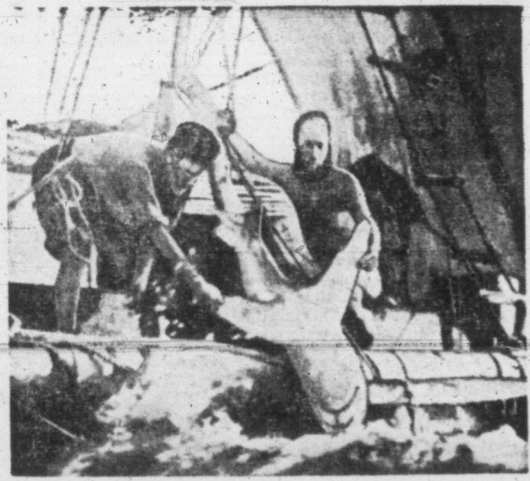

Which One Is The Daughter? That's a question often asked by people who see beautiful Metropolitan Opera star Jarmila Novotna and her daughter together. Madame Novotna says her secret of beauty and youth is a well-known one! She gives her complexion the regular care of WOODBURY FACIAL SOAP. You see, Woodbury is more than just a cleanser. To every cake, Woodbury skin scientists add a rich beauty-cream ingredient—the same beauty oil used in fine face creams. While some soaps dry, Woodbury soothes. Its beauty oil is intended to help replace the natural oils you wash away. So treat your skin to Woodbury's creamy lather regularly. And get the Big Beauty Bath Size for all-over loveliness.

'Islands' Shifted Experimentally To Aid Traffic

One traffic island, has been filled in and a second one shaped at the Blanshard-Douglas intersection near Beacon Hill Park. City public works officials were hoping to have the curbing completed late today.

Two islands were originally marked when the roadway was rebuilt and asphalted. The arrangement was a temporary one, dependent on how the traffic flowed through the intersection. The plan proved unsatisfactory.

HAMPERS WASHING
BLAIRMORE, Alta. (CP)—Citizens here have been confronted with water that looks more like black ink. The color resulted from heavy rains carrying coal dust from surface mines into the dam holding the town's water supply.

Shark-Catching, Kon-Tiki Style

Ever-present sharks were a nuisance and a menace to the crew of the little raft, Kon-Tiki, on its fearsome 101 days drifting across the Pacific from Peru to Polynesia. The adventure, recorded in film made on the trip, is recounted by Thor Heyerdahl in the picture of the same name released by RKO Radio and now showing at the Dominion Theatre.

Margaret Truman Wins High Praise From Famed Tallulah

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, Nov. 2 (AP)—Margaret Truman today won high praise from a fellow performer, Tallulah Bankhead, who predicts a rosy future in show business for the President's daughter.

"She's a fine, talented girl," said Tallulah, the "dahling"—of radio.

"When Margaret first appeared on her 'Big Show' we were a little afraid of how she would be, since she had never done that type of thing before. But we were enchanted with how she came through."

"She's a wonderful sport, too. She hangs around the stage and kids with all of us. We've never had to change the script for her. Her only request has been that we say nothing that would poke fun at her father. But she said we could say anything we wanted about her."

"Yes, dahling. I think Margaret can make a fine career for herself in show business... she has simplicity... The simplicity that goes with greatness."

Miss Bankhead added that she had reactions from the White House from Margaret's appearance. Mrs. Truman penned a letter of appreciation. (Yes, she writes letters, too.) And the President telephoned Tallulah after one of the shows.

PROFITS REDUCE LABOUR... BUT INCREASE JOBS

Sounds confusing but it isn't. Profits pay for new machines and equipment which mean more efficient production with shorter working hours and less physical effort... therefore profits reduce labour. Profits pay for new product research, new plants and new development. This means the employment of more men. Therefore profits reduce labour but increase jobs.*

The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company has continually "ploughed back" a substantial part of its profits to modernize its plants, develop new mines and expand its operations. In the first years of its operation Cominco employed around 175 men. Today, this great company provides jobs for over 8,500. Many more jobs at wages many times that of the early days... all made possible by "company profits."

*$63,000,000 from Company profits is now being spent on new projects. The completion of these projects will mean the addition of 800 permanent jobs.

The Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company is one of the largest producers of lead and zinc in the world and Canada's leading producer of chemical fertilizers.

ATHABASKAN HURT IN WILD TYPHOON

Canadian Ships Experience Worst Japan Gale In Two Decades, Lose Boats And Gear In Seas

By LIEUT. (S.B.) R. A. V. JENKINS, R.C.N.

(Lieut. Allan Jenkins, who has the distinction of having served in all three branches of the military during the war, as well as the merchant service. For three years after the war he was a reporter on the staff of The Times.)

ABOARD H.M.C.S. ATHABASKAN, AT SEA—"I met Ruth on a Sunday night in a dark alley known as Korea Strait. She was typical of her kind, only worse. She bit, spat, scratched, kicked and took me for my roll. All the same, she was quite a gal and worth knowing once. Sorry I can't introduce you but she left for parts unknown."

This sounds as though someone had quite a night out and, in the case of the Athabaskan, who originated the message, it was quite true. For the Athabaskan was replying to a query from the Australian destroyer Tobruk regarding Typhoon Ruth, which gained the unenviable reputation of being the worst typhoon to strike Japan in two decades.

The Athabaskan, in company with H.M. ships Belfast and Unicorn, sailed from her U.N. naval base in southern Japan in an attempt to escape the violent storm. The three ships went to comparative safety. But they did not get away without a buffeting. Winds up to 70 miles an hour, building up 40-foot waves, hurled themselves on the ships.

An attempt to cross the wind and escape to the west proved hazardous as the ships, particularly the smaller Canadian destroyer, rolled excessively. It was decided to heave to and see the storm out.

GOOD WORK DONE

There was good work done aboard the Athabaskan that afternoon and night as the ship's company carried out essential tasks in the face of the storm, dodging roaring green seas which washed feet deep over the midships section. Men went about their work soaked to the skin for hours on end. For a time, traffic on the upper decks was impossible, and officers on watch on the bridge had to carry on for hours past their relief time.

Aft in the wardroom furniture piled itself up on the port side and stayed there. At times it was necessary to lie down on the deck to avoid being hurled across the ship.

In the forward messdecks, water shot down through storm-damaged deck ventilators, soaking men and gear.

TRICKY FOOTING

On deck, at one period, a number of seamen struggled against the wind and water to secure the ship's boats on the port side to prevent them being torn from the davits after their grips had carried away. It was tricky work but they completed their task without accident.

Damage was not as bad as expected. The starboard motor-cutter had been stove in as the seas lifted it in its davits and crashed it down again. The starboard whaler suffered similar damage and a carley float had gone. But all in all the Athabaskan could consider herself lucky, particularly compared with H.M.C.S. Sioux, who had put to sea with H.M.A.S. Sydney, and the Netherlands destroyer Van Galen.

The Sioux, in another area, had her gun shield stove in, while the forward bulkhead of the petty officers' mess was buckled and the bulkhead started from the deck. Two Bofors guns were thrown out of alignment, all her boats were damaged beyond repair and most

City's December Vote May Match 1949 Total

In the December civic elections, Victoria may match but not exceed the 53.21 per cent. vote of the 1949 mayoral election. This is the view of City Clerk M. Frank Hunter.

Third heaviest vote on record, the 1949 figure was only topped by the 1937 percentage of 53.26 and the all-time record of 63.16 in 1938.

In '49, voters not only had to select a mayor from a field of two—Mayor Percy George and Ald. Aubrey Kent—but voted on a $350,000 library loan by-law. With deadline for voters' registrations closed Wednesday night, he anticipates eligible voters will number a record high of 19,400 this year. The list has been going up by 500 to 600 names a year, according to Hunter, who is returning officer. Last year's list had 18,893 names. Up to deadline 793 additional registrations were made, but the total cannot be fixed easily. There will be changes, through property sales, for example, before the total is known.

Greater Victoria municipal voters' lists closed Wednesday night also, and first approximate figures indicate that about 22,500 persons will be eligible to cast ballots for council elections in the four outside municipalities.

GIVES UP RELIGION FOR BRIDE

CAMP KILMER, N.J., Nov. 2 (UP).—A Catholic air force chaplain, who gave up his religion for the girl he loved, took his bride—and an honorable discharge—back to their west coast honeymoon ranch today.

Lieut. Thomas J. Mitchell, 34, New York, slipped into camp here three days ago and was promptly separated from the service.

Known as Father Austin when he was a priest in the Franciscan order, Mitchell married Pauline Zaina, 24, in San Francisco Oct. 19 after six years of searching his conscience.
